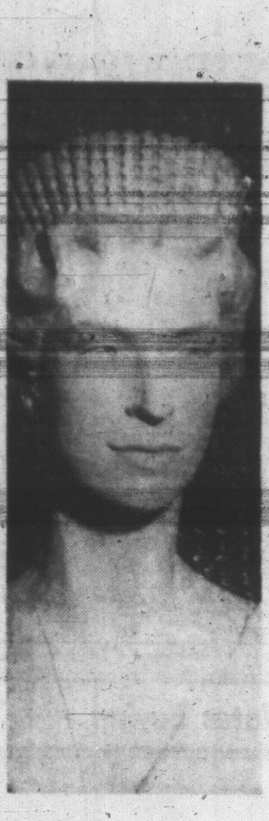
IF THE CITY WON'T PAY HER, LET US DO IT

Make the Pennies Pour for Peggy



THE BUST

Six months have elapsed since sculptress Peggy Packard delivered to city council the concrete bust of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, which it commissioned last June at a fee of $350.

But Peggy hasn't been paid.

While the council bumbles and frets about a location for the bust (now in temporary headquarters at City Hall); about landscaping at Beacon Hill Park; about potential "vandalism"—Peggy's modest bill goes ignored.

The Times feels this nonsense has gone far enough.

Accordingly, we are launching a campaign today:

"PENNIES FOR PEGGY PACKARD."

We want all citizens who feel as we do to send their pennies to The Times, marked simply, "Pennies for Peggy."

We want them from kiddies, from old-age pensioners, from business people, working girls and any others who agree that:

PEGGY

(1) Cities should pay their bills;

(2) Artists—whose work is often remembered centuries after the politicians are buried—have been kicked around long enough.

★ ★ ★

The history, briefly, is this: Peggy Packard was approached three weeks before the Queen's visit by Ald. Millard Mooney (himself an amateur artist) to do a bust of the Queen, suitable for placement in Beacon Hill Park, where the Queen was to review the troops.

Miss Packard said three weeks wasn't enough, but she could do a "temporary" job for the occasion and a complete one later. The concrete bust was finished in September.

Then the question of site arose. Peggy went to Beacon Hill Park with city architect Rod Clack and parks administrator Herb Warren.

They agreed that Dallas Road was too close to the sea; weathering could cause real damage.

Eventually a good spot was chosen, just south (across the road) from the Burns Memorial. This was in an area on which attractive beds could be laid out, with a pleasant, sloping background of natural pines.

A stake was driven to mark the spot.

Then arose the hassle about "vandals." Some councillors thought the statue should go to the Art Gallery. Others felt it should be left at City Hall.

Mr. Warren thought he needed about $1,000 for appropriate landscaping.

Rod Clack (says Peggy) was "most helpful"—tried to work out a plan of action, and to get her bill paid.

But no dice.

★ ★ ★

In the meantime, councillors have made themselves look foolish across the nation.

Stories of Victoria's "big bust" have hit the news-wires.

Miss Packard has received clippings from as far away as Chicago, spoofing the city for its tangle-footed way of dealing with a memorial to Our Sovereign Lady.

And so The Times, in an effort to save the city further embarrassment, is appealing for "Pennies for Peggy."

If every citizen gave only one cent, there would be 140,000 pennies or $1,400.

When 35,000 pennies ($350) are in, The Times will trundle them in wheelbarrows to city treasurer Denis Young, so that Peggy may be paid.

If the bill has been paid in the interim, The Times will turn all the pennies over to a landscaping fund, so that the bust of our Queen may have a fitting locale.

One thousand pennies ($10) are already in. May we have yours, addressed simply to:

"Pennies for Peggy," care of The Times.

"How many pennies to fill it?" asks Rosemary Bergstrom.

'Needy Ignored While Bennett Buying Votes'

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett has ignored the needs of the unemployed, the needy and the ailing in recent years to create a $25,000,000 surplus to buy votes this year, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan charged in the legislature Monday.

The CCF leader talked for over two hours on the theme that the government has misrepresented its actions and "outlived its usefulness."

ROBERT STRACHAN.

He marshalled his facts and figures and led them in columns against the budget address of Premier Bennett.

The fire of his address at times brought cabinet ministers to their feet crying denials and demanding withdrawals, and at other times held the whole House in head-lowered silence.

He said a CCF government would wipe out the homeowners' grant, give the money direct to municipalities to reduce the mill rate and increase social welfare payments.

"The $22 boost in the homeowners' grant should be investigated as a political sales gimmick" by the legislative committee set up to study trading stamps and other promotional retailing devices, said Mr. Strachan.

'Politicking With Taxpayers' Money'

He charged the premier with distorting fact and hiding direct debt, politicking with taxpayers' money, and striving more than anything else for re-election.

Mr. Strachan said it has taken two years to get the story. But with publication of the public accounts of 1958-59 last week he was able to learn of the government's inconsistency.

The government passed a motion in 1958, he said, to do everything possible for the unemployed. Fernie and Britannia Beach closed down that year. There were 60,000 unemployed in the province.

Yet the Trans-Canada Highway project, for which $17,000,000 was appropriated, was underspent by $7,000,000. This would have meant $18,000,000 in new work, had it been fully spent, because of federal sharing.

Allotments for roads, bridges and ferries were unexpended to the extent of $4,012,097; construction of provincial buildings was underspent by $2,024,131.

The $21,762,584 surplus of that year plus $3,257,735 for 1959-60 will be used this year in the biggest-ever spending spree.

Recalling that these amounts were in the estimates approved by the House that year, Mr. Strachan said:

"No wonder we say, this is a government you can't trust, they don't mean a thing they say."

He cited an example in Vancouver's Jericho Hill School for 33 deaf and blind children, an old frame building which he said was condemned in 1958 and again in 1959.

"This is the year we didn't spend $2,000,000 allocated for new provincial buildings," he added.

"On both occasions a sprinkler system was recommended pending a new building. As of last Wednesday, nothing had been done. So last year we put $6,000,000 into supplementary debt reduction, without approval of this House.

"I'd be sorry and ashamed to be a member of a government which has acted as this has done," he said.

'Straight Political Use of Office'

"We spent $15,000 advertising phony debt reduction across Canada, but we underspent on this school. In the last two years public accounts revealed that the vote for this school had been underspent by $5,804.

"The facts presented to us prove beyond any shadow of doubt that money for unnecessary supplementary debt reduction ($12,000,000) and money to advertise this so-called debt-reduction ($15,000) is far more important to this Social Credit government than the safety of these helpless youngsters."

Public accounts show that that between 1952 and 1959 the department of health and wel-

ALD. J. L. SANGSTER . . . the first time.

AGAIN

Heave Ho . . . Out You Go

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Alderman J. Lewis Sangster was removed bodily from the council chamber here Monday night—for the second time in three months.

On Nov. 23, the alderman went out with a smile on his face. This time he put up a vain battle against the two burly policemen who carried him out.

Both issues arose from disputes with Alderman Jack Allison, another long-time council member.

Ald. Sangster accused Ald. Allison Monday night of shirking his duties over the hiring of a new city electrician.

Mayor Beth Wood tried to tell Ald. Sangster to speak to the motion but couldn't make herself heard.

She barked "Shut up" but the alderman continued shouting. He clutched at the table, still shouting, as he was lifted bodily and carried out.

Guarded by policemen in his own room, the partly crippled alderman declared: "She (Mayor Wood) knows as much of municipal law as I know about knitting. But what can you expect from a woman?"

New Atom Treaty Sought by Soviet

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia submitted a new set of proposals for an East-West treaty to ban nuclear tests at today's session of the three-power conference.

The Soviet Union also formally rejected President Eisenhower's proposal of last week for a ban on all tests except small-scale underground explosions.

A communique issued at the end of today's 60-minute meeting said Russia had submitted proposals on the adoption of "temporary simplified criteria" for inspection of events suspected as nuclear explosions.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin has argued at length that fewer on-site inspections than the West demands are necessary to police a total ban on nuclear tests.

U.K. Hikes Defence Budget

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today boosted its defence budget for the next fiscal year by £115,700,000. The increase brought the total outlay for defence for the 1960-61 year to £1,617,830,000.

The figures were disclosed by the government in an annual report to parliament on defence.

The report said the increased expenditure was due partly to the transfer to the defence budget of some expenditures formerly borne by other departments.

Development of the Blue Streak, Britain's ballistic missile, is continuing. But the report added that the government may decide not to rely exclusively on fixed-site missiles.

The possibility of long-range missiles being fired from moving launchers, such as planes or submarines, also was being investigated, the report said.

Today's report also disclosed:

1. Arrangements are being made with the United States to provide a warning system for Britain against missile attack.

2. An order for the first all-British nuclear submarine is expected to be placed in the coming year.

3. The new aircraft carrier Hermes, equipped with the latest devices in air defence, is about to join the fleet.

'Send Army' Iraq Asked

LONDON (Reuters)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser today invited Iraq's army to join his United Arab Republic forces for the "liberation of Palestine."

The president referred to a collection of funds in Iraq on behalf of "the Palestine Republic," and said false slogans and mere words would not liberate Palestine.

Addressing Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, Nasser declared: "This is the way to fight: Send the Iraqi army to stand with the UAR army on the borders and let the Arabs in every country feel the Arab nation is a strong nation."

The UAR's First and Second armies, Nasser said, are on the borders with Israel and prepared to "smash Israeli dreams" of a domain from the Nile to the Euphrates.

WIRE BRIEFS

New Chessman Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An attorney for Caryl Chessman made a 15th appeal to the Supreme Court today in an effort to save the convict-author from execution Friday morning in California's gas chamber.

New Algiers Threat

ALGIERS (UPI) — Right-wing tracts proclaiming "that barricades will go up again" with army support circulated from hand to hand today in Algiers.

Record for Thriftway

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The unlimited hydroplane Miss Thriftway piloted by Bill Muncey roared to an unofficial world record of 192.001 miles an hour today over a measured mile course on Lake Washington. The old mark was 187.627.

Goodwill Tour Showed Up Need

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today for $4,175,000,000 in new foreign aid funds to safeguard the free world against the "enormous power bloc of Communist imperialism."

The mutual security program is essential to world progress in freedom, he said in a special message to Congress.

The sum, nearly $1,000,000,000 more than Congress voted last year, would be split up in this way: $2,000,000,000 for weapons aid to allies and $2,175,000,000 for economic and technical assistance.

In appealing to the legislators to avoid drastic cuts of the program, Eisenhower mentioned his 11-nation December goodwill tour to Asia, the Middle East and Europe. He said:

"LOOK TO US"

"My recent travels impressed upon me even more strongly the fact that free men everywhere look to us not with envy or malice but with hope and confidence that we will in the future, as in the past, be the vanguard of those who believe in and will defend the right of the individual to enjoy the fruits of his labor in peace and in freedom."

Eisenhower said that without the billions of dollars in foreign aid voted by Congress in the last 14 years "the map of the world would be vastly different today because of communism's continuing threat."

NEW FEATURES

Eisenhower's foreign aid request, covering the year beginning July 1, included these new features:

1. More economic and technical assistance for South Asia, including India and Pakistan.

2. A new special assistance fund of $20,000,000 to finance an education and training program for African areas south of the Sahara Desert.

FIRE HITS 'MACBETH'S CASTLE'

FORFAR, Scotland (Reuters)—Fire today damaged a wing of Glamis Castle, the birthplace of Princess Margaret.

Six rooms were damaged by the blaze but firemen brought the flames under control before they reached the roof.

The castle, childhood home of the Queen Mother, is reputedly inhabited by a bizarre collection of ghosts who stalk the cold, dark corridors throughout the night.

Shakespeare chose Glamis Castle as the scene for his MacBeth.

U.S. Team To Hunt Sub

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Twenty U.S. Navy men arrived today and were ordered immediately to Puerto Madryn to aid the Argentine navy in its search for two mystery submarines believed lurking in the Nuevo Golfo area.

The group was instructed to report to Vice-Admiral Alberto P. Vago, Argentine naval operations chief directing the submarine hunt at Puerto Madryn.

At least 13 Argentine warships and 30 aircraft equipped with U.S. anti-submarine depth charges, bombs and sound equipment are participating in the "kill" campaign against the underseas intruders, but late reports indicate the subs may have slipped away.

Any Day . . . Not Today As 3 Doctors See Queen

LONDON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth, awaiting the birth of her third child, must wait a while longer.

Three of her doctors visited her today and found the royal situation unchanged.

The physicians—Lord Evans, Sir John Weir and obstetrician John H. Peel—slipped into Buckingham Palace through a back door for the examination of their 33-year-old patient.

Just as silently, they slipped out.

When the time comes, they will take with them a fourth man, Dr. Vernon Hall, an anaesthetist.

Though the general expectation had been that this would be the doctors' final examination before the birth, a royal source pointed out that the doctors had seen the Queen every Tuesday for six weeks.

The implication was that it was a routine call.

It was understood that the physicians advised the Queen today to move from her apartment to the palace's ground-floor Belgian Suite which has been converted into a maternity clinic.

The official palace forecast is "any day now." Court officials believe the most likely time is Wednesday.

Monday night, a palace spokesman reported: "The Queen is extremely well and leading a normal but quiet life."

The doctors have been on a steady alert since Monday.

MIXED MARRIAGE URGED FOR ROYAL CHILDREN

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, Eng. (AP)—A Presbyterian clergyman Monday urged the Queen to encourage her children to make inter-racial marriages.

Writing in his parish magazine, Rev. William H. Barbour, 47, said:

"Christian people must not be unwilling to marry Chinese, Indians or Africans or we shall never solve the color problem.

"It would be a wonderful help and inspiration if our Royal Family, who are themselves good Christians, would give a lead to us, their subjects, and fellow Christians."

IN THE HOUSE

WITH

Norman Cribbens

The Opposition was at its liveliest Monday afternoon — the liveliest it has been since the session opened.

CCF leader Robert Strachan took a battle-axe to Premier Bennett's 1960 budget while George Gregory, for the Liberals, attacked it with lively, good-humored sword play.

How many holes they made in the bulging $331,000,000 budget will not be known until next election day. Regardless, they set the tone for this year's budget debate which is, in effect, an "open season" on government members.

The fact Mr. Gregory was so much more temperate in his attacks than Mr. Strachan seemed to me just as it should be; for how can a man call himself a Liberal if he is not magnanimous?

Even the dusty old dictionary defines a Liberal as "generous and open-minded."

* * *

Mr. Gregory admitted there were good things in Premier Bennett's budget, even if he didn't like the premier's methods of financing.

He confessed he found the premier's figures confusing and wished his old friend and colleague, P. A. Gibbs, of Oak Bay, could have been there to analyze them.

Alas, Mr. Gibbs was at home recuperating from an operation and Mr. Gregory had to battle with budgetary statistics in his absence.

* * *

He questioned whether Premier Bennett could represent us to Ottawa as "a poor down-trodden province" when our revenues had risen from $143,000,000 in 1952 to $306,000,000 in the current fiscal year.

Then he wondered why the government should spend so much on Public Works Minister W. N. Chant—the government's elder statesman—when it seemed the minister did little but handle Victoria's new courthouse and a staff of janitors.

"Janitors are useful men," replied Mr. Chant from his seat in the cabinet.

"Yes," replied Mr. Gregory, "and I am sure they are competent to do their jobs without having a minister breathing down their necks."

* * *

Continuing his offensive, Mr. Gregory said there were 129 questions on the order paper of which only four had been answered.

"This government learned that from the old Liberals," joked Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East).

"That does not excuse them," retorted Mr. Gregory.

Swinging his battle-axe, Mr. Strachan denounced the government's new $50 home owner's grant as "a political sales gimmick."

He referred to Premier Bennett's bond-burning ceremony at Kelowna last summer as a Roman circus designed to delude the people. He said the government's publicity man, Bill Clancy, promised the population whole steers roasted over pits.

"But all they got were hot dogs, balloons, free ice cream and the minister of health (Eric Martin) in a sailor's cap," Mr. Strachan declared.

"You should have been there to join in the fun," replied Mr. Martin.

Mr. Strachan told how the premier fired flaming arrows at a barge-load of bonds which missed their mark so that an embarrassed RCMP constable had to light them.

He said an archery expert gave these reasons why the premier didn't hit the barge—he didn't use a good bow, he held it upside down, he placed the arrow on the wrong side of the bow, he held the bow string incorrectly.

* * *

Premier Bennett wasn't there to reply to this onslaught. But he is expected back in the House this afternoon to introduce some new bills. He will then continue his convalescence from an operation two weeks ago.

Tree-Lined Entrance Proposed for City

City parks committee Monday recommended that council initiate the first taxable boulevard project in 25 years to beautify the Douglas Street entrance to the city.

Forty red flowering chestnuts will be planted on each side of Douglas between the Roundabout and the city limit at Tolmie, if the plan goes through.

Cost to property owners along the proposed boulevard would be $2 a foot frontage. Parks administrator said the boulevards would reach from existing sidewalks to property lines. No sidewalk would have to be broken up.

The trees would be about six feet high when planted this spring and would grow to about 20 feet at maturity.

Mr. Warren reported that several steps to beautify the highway entrance now are being considered, apparently spurred by the Swartz Bay ferry terminal location which will funnel most visitors into the city via Douglas.

B.C. Electric hopes to remove its power poles north of the Roundabout within four years, he said.

. . . STRACHAN

fare underspent its allocation by over $10,000,000, he said.

"Over $10,000,000 earmarked for the relief of human suffering diverted to vote-catching."

Mr. Strachan produced figures to show what he felt was similar activity in the department of agriculture.

He said, under "advertising and publicity" the department was voted $671 in 1955-56 and $643 in the early part of the 1956-57 fiscal year. But later that year, prior to the last election, the government spent $106,528. Then the allotment dropped to $8,705 and $8,459 in the next two years.

Mr. Strachan said the $106,528 went to place signs in every store window and on billboards, purportedly to sell B.C. apples, but bearing "pictures of the premier . . . a straight political use of office."

He said this year the agriculture budget allows $150,000 for advertising and publicizing B.C. farm products.

"Recollect what happened in 1956 . . . is our premier a product of B.C. farms?"

Mr. Strachan noted the premier's budgetry concern about "undue foreign control over industry and natural resource developments."

The opposition leader said this was strange in view of attempts of this government to give power rights to Kaiser Aluminum Co. of the U.S. and more recently in respect to the Wenner-Gren development of northern B.C.

MORE INSTABILITY

Mr. Strachan used Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures to show there has been more instability in B.C. than elsewhere in Canada since 1952.

Trade Minister Bonner rose to argue, but Mr. Strachan told him to "sit there and squirm."

He referred to Mr. Bonner as "my rather dumb friend" at one point, but withdrew the remark.

Mr. Strachan noted the premier wanted Ottawa to waive the federal sales tax on provincial purchases.

He said the provincial government should set an example by exempting municipal and school board purchases from the provincial sales tax.

The CCF leader said it was an unfair comparison for the premier to seed his budget with graphs comparing the revenues and expenditures of 1952 and 1960. Although the differences were dramatic, he said the graphs do not take into consideration the increases in population, increased revenue sources, the deflation of the dollar or the greater demands for service today.

MISLEADING

Mr. Strachan said the premier's budget is misleading also in that grants to schools are shown as $6,500,000 but the comparison is with the 1959-60 estimates and fails to note the supplementary estimates of $991,492. In actual fact, schools are receiving only $5,488,008, he said.

The same comparison was made of social welfare estimates, he said. When the supplementary estimates are considered, the increase in welfare spending drops from $7,000,000 to $5,395,000.

"Of this the federal and municipal governments pay 60 per cent. The province only has to find $2,158,000," he said.

He reminded the House the present rate for two persons on social allowance is $86.50 and if this is increased 20 per cent, as indicated in the new budget, the total sum os $103.80 a month. Mr. Strachan said this is still $30.70 less than the minimum recommended in a recent study by Vancouver Community Chest.

"This is where I would rather have seen the $22 vote-catching money go," he added.

Finally, Mr. Strachan turned to the old argument of whether the province has or has not any debt.

He said the B.C. Toll Highways and Bridges Authority now has a debt of $91,250,537.

"We are paying the shot. The tolls barely pay the operating costs and interest."

So the authority does not meet the premier's interpretation of a contingent liability, he said.

Mr. Strachan said the premier says a contingent liability is a self-liquidating obligation.

Then he pointed out that the school districts of the province now owe $93,638,400.

"Is this debt self-liquidating?"

"The fiscal policies of this government are erratic, capricious, wayward and volatile. They are impervious to reason, fickle and frothy, irresolute, slippery and meaningless. None of the figures presented in our estimates can be believed," he said.

B.C. HIGHEST-TAXED PROVINCE, SAYS GREGORY

'$50 Grant Won't Make Up for Tax Boosts'

A reduction of taxes is long overdue in British Columbia, George Gregory, the Liberal member for Victoria, told the legislature Monday.

Mr. Gregory said he found no hint of any tax reduction in the budget which Premier Bennett brought down last Friday.

"We in British Columbia pay the highest taxes of any province in Canada and it is high time we had some relief."

He pointed out that B.C.'s revenue had risen from $143,000,000 in 1952 to $306,000,000 in the current year. But taxes and assessments had risen to the point where he did not think the government's increase in home-owner grant from $28 to $50 would compensate for them.

TAXED OUT

"Except in a few cases, the grant will not begin to make up for the increased taxes," Mr. Gregory said. "People in my constituency of Victoria are being taxed right out of their homes."

He questioned, too, whether the grant would halt the current inflationary trend.

In addition to paying higher taxes, both directly and indirectly, British Columbians were paying increased fees for government services—notably in the court registry.

The cost of issuing a writ had increased from $4 to $5, plus 50 cents for filing a copy of the writ, and petitions which used to cost $1 now cost $5—up 400 per cent.

"This budget will do nothing to retard inflation and may well advance it," Mr. Gregory said.

He called on the government to clarify its attitude towards public power, saying that both Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and Attorney-General Robert Bonner appeared to favor developing the Peace River ahead of the Columbia River.

NEED POLICY

"We need a definite policy," Mr. Gregory said. "Is it to be the Peace first and then the Columbia, or both? Or are we going to rely on thermal power?"

Of the government's recent sale of $36,000,000 worth of parity bonds in the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, the Liberal member said:

"We are committed to make this the most attractive investment on the market. The danger is that, if something more attractive came along, the investors would want their money back.

"I am not saying anything more attractive will come along but it could happen."

'KEEP DEATH PENALTY' CHURCH URGES MPs

TORONTO (CP) — Members of Parliament were urged Monday to retain capital punishment as "an effective deterrent to murder" by the executive council of the Fellowship of Evengelical Baptist Churches in Canada. The council said in a resolution that abolition of the death penalty would "erase a law from the statute books which our forefathers accepted as the direct law of God."

IN PARLIAMENT

New Death Penalty Bill Leaves It Up to Judge

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—The current session's fourth private bill dealing with capital punishment was introduced in the Commons Monday.

It would give a trial judge the discretion of sentencing a murder convict to life imprisonment or hanging. The Criminal Code now makes the death sentence mandatory.

The bill was introduced by J. P. Deschatelets (L. Montreal Maisonneuve-Rosemont).

On Thursday the Commons will debate the first of the four bills, introduced by Frank McGee (PC, York-Scarborough). It would abolish capital punishment for all crimes except treason and piracy with violence.

A bill identical to the McGee one has been presented in the Senate by Senator David Croll (L, Ontario). However, Senator Croll has said he will not proceed with his if the Commons goes ahead with Mr. McGee's bill.

Ranking ahead of Mr. Deschatelet's bill on the Commons order paper is other private legislation introduced by John Drysdale (PC, Burnaby-Richmond) that would allow Canada to follow the United Kingdom approach to capital punishment.

In effect, Mr. Drysdale's proposal is to ban capital punishment for crimes of passion, but retain it for such cases as the murder of a policeman or prison guard, or murder committed with a firearm or explosives or in the course of theft or robbery.

Documents Denied

The Commons voted down two Liberal motions for production of documents. The first was for a civil service commission report on salary increases for the civil service—refused by the government—and the second for "The Canadian Economic Outlook, 1959", a government report.

In the day's private members' debate, Gage W. Montgomery (PC, Victoria-Carleton), suggested that Canadian lumbermen should refuse to work in Maine or New Hampshire until employers in those states agree to contribute to Canada's unemployment insurance fund.

In Commons debate on a motion by Jean-Paul Racine (L., Beauce), that the government consider approaching United States authorities about unemployment benefits for Canadian lumbermen working in Maine, Mr. Montgomery noted there had been discussions and negotiations since 1954. They had proved fruitless.

J. C. Van Horne, "maverick" Tory from New Brunswick, offered to resign if he couldn't work out an unemployment insurance agreement with the State of Maine in three months.

Just a Mole Hill

"We make the darnedest mountains out of the smallest mole hills," Van Horne said—but the debate was adjourned indefinitely by the government.

Robert McCleave (PC, Halifax) successfully moved adjournment of the debate over objections from Liberal and CCF members, who were defeated on a vote of 112 to 29 in an attempt to keep the debate alive.

Earlier, the Commons decided to consider today a motion by Murdo Martin (CCF-Timmins) to have the president of Sperry and Hutchison Company of Canada Limited, Toronto, called before the bar of the Commons to answer charges of breach of privilege and illegal use of the Canadian coat of arms.

Mr. Martin said the company illegally used the coat of arms in a photostatic reproduction of a Hansard report of remarks made in the Commons concerning trading stamps. The reproduction was distributed to parliamentary reporters by mail.

Legal authorities said the Commons has the power to order a fine or imprisonment for persons found guilty in such a case.

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) chided Labor Minister Starr and Justice Minister Fulton for their absence from the House when he was seeking information. Only 32 of the Commons' 264 members were present at this point. The quorum is 20 members, including the House Speaker.

Mac Admits Assault On Apartheid

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today he had sought to influence opinion in South Africa on the handling of race problems in the apartheid (racial separation) state.

In a report to Parliament on his month-long tour of British African territories, Macmillan said:

"If I have done anything in that direction I am quite content."

Earlier Hugh Gaitskell, Leader of the Opposition, congratulated the prime minister for what he called Macmillan's "forthright denunciation" of South Africa's apartheid policies.

Macmillan's frank admission today of his political purposes in expressing disapproval of South Africa's race policies seemed sure to spark new trouble with the rulers of that Commonwealth country.

Already Foreign Minister Eric Louw has publicly accused Macmillan of interfering in South Africa's internal affairs.

Rhee's Election Sure As Opponent Dies

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Tough old Syngman Rhee has been assured of re-election to his fourth term as president of South Korea by the death of his chief opponent.

Without a change in election laws, the opposition Democratic party cannot nominate a replacement for Chough Pyong-ok, 65, who died suddenly Monday in Washington, where he had been recuperating from abdominal surgery.

The election is March 15.

One major newspaper, Donga-Ilbo, said in an editorial that Rhee's Liberal party, which has a majority in the National Assembly, should give the Democrats a chance to name another candidate. But Supreme Court Justice Kim Too-il, chairman of the central election committee, said it is impossible for the Democrats to put up a substitute.

Mr. Fleming's Axe

WITH A FINE AIR OF GENEROSITY, as if he were making a handsome concession to a good customer, Mr. Fleming agrees that Japan can increase its exports to Canada. But only within fixed limits. In a "good year," as he calls it, Japan may increase its sales here by as much as five to 10 per cent, no more. And for this concession, apparently, Japan owes Canada its thanks.

Thus the Canadian Government effectively repudiates its trade agreement with Japan, our third foreign customer and our second customer for wheat.

The trade agreement, negotiated within the framework of GATT, fixes certain tariffs in Canada and in Japan. After paying the customs duties thus fixed, Japan, or any other nation, is entitled to export to Canada as many goods as it can sell competitively. But the Canadian Government breaches that contract by imposing import quotas.

It is mere fiction, of course, to say, as Mr. Fleming says, that Japan imposes the quotas by limiting its exports to Canada. To be sure, the quotas are fixed in Tokyo but only because Canada demands them. In fact, the restrictions on Japanese imports are fixed in Ottawa.

Two can easily play this game. If Canada undercuts the tariff agreement and imposes restrictions more drastic than tariffs by the backdoor method, Japan can do the same. In the case of wheat, our largest export to Japan, that is precisely what Japan will do, whether this is publicly admitted or not.

During the last crop year Japan bought 42 million bushels of wheat from Canada to the great benefit of the whole prairie economy. If it applied Mr. Fleming's maximum formula it would increase those purchases by only 4.2 million bushels in the next year when the prairie farmers are desperately anxious to unload a huge wheat surplus.

There is a growing and almost unlimited market for wheat in Japan where the people are learning to eat bread instead of rice. The market for Canadian wheat, however, is limited by Japan's supplies of dollars. At the moment Japan is losing more dollars than it earns in Canada because it buys here far more than it sells. If we wish to sell more wheat, and many other things to Japan, we must buy more.

Mr. Fleming seems to assume that Japan must buy wheat here but this is quite untrue. While Japan prefers Canadian wheat, because its quality is high, wheat somewhat inferior can be bought from other nations like the United States, Australia and Russia, all eager to sell at attractive prices. By slightly changing the mixture of its bread, Japan can supply an expanding market and even reduce its wheat purchases here.

The latest exchanges between the Canadian and Japanese Governments must be considered in the larger context of Canada's trade.

The frightening fact at the moment is that Canada has been accumulating exchange deficits in virtually every market of the world, except Japan. Last year, in visible and invisible trade, we bought about $1.5 billions more than we sold and covered most of that balance by borrowing from foreigners.

Under these conditions we should be encouraging any market like Japan where we sell more than we buy. But we are prepared to encourage Japan only to the point where it creates inconvenient competition for our own highly-protected manufacturing industries.

At that point Mr. Fleming applies the axe of his quota system regardless of the cost to our great exporting industries, including those of British Columbia. Yet the Canadian Government is never tired of advocating competition—so long as it doesn't hurt.

Wanted: Houses for Homes

WE ARE NOW PAST THE half-way mark in World Refugee Year. Much has been done, but much more still remains to be done. Hundreds of thousands of human beings, displaced from their homes by wars and the aftermath, still exist in "temporary" habitations that provide little better than a living death.

For many, these conditions will be all they know throughout the rest of their lives. But for others, some hope of a better life still remains. How many will be in this latter category depends upon how much assistance is provided by people in more fortunate circumstances. It was to marshal this aid that Refugee Year was inaugurated.

The inauguration itself demonstrates how much can come from a small beginning. A few young Britons were discussing the International Geophysical Year, and wondered why something couldn't be done in the same way for human problems. The idea was taken up in the British press and by the United Nations Association, made its way into the political realm, and a few months later was proposed by the British delegation to the United Nations Assembly in New York. The scheme was under way.

Britain has led the nations with a £2 million contribution. The Netherlands are next, followed by New Zealand and Australia. Canada's program has amounted to $1,476,000 but much more could be contributed and our empty spaces could take many more worthy new citizens.

The story is told of a little European refugee who replied to a social worker's regret that he had no home. "We have a home, but we haven't got a house to put it in," the child said. That is a need which Canadians can help to meet.

On Wednesday and Thursday, Mr. Peter Casson, Canadian representative of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, will visit Victoria to tell about the work that has been done and that needs to be done. His story is one to which we should listen.

Plea for the 'Poor Man's Drink'

THE BREWERS OF CANADA have called on Finance Minister Fleming for action on behalf of the beer drinkers of this nation. They want a revision of taxes which will repeal the special emergency tax placed on beer during the Korean trouble in 1950 and they ask elimination of the "tax on a tax" which is the payment of sales tax on the excise duty component of the sales price.

Some special charges of a similar nature have already been removed from wines. Since they continue on beer—and increase the price to the consumer—the brewers feel they are victims of discrimination.

The brewers argue, moreover, that "taxes, with their influence on price, are a factor influencing the Canadian public in its present trend toward hard liquor-drinking and away from beer."

This trend, together with the relatively modest increases they report in sales price over a number of years, has also cut down profits.

Since beer is conventionally considered the poor man's drink, the request the brewers make to Mr. Fleming deserves consideration — provided it benefits the consumer either through lower prices or a maintenance of present prices instead of an increase.

The brewers' subsidiary argument that beer is a more temperate drink than hard liquor could be a matter of opinion, although it is obvious that those who drink too much can become more intoxicated more quickly on hard liquor than on "hops."

For Better Baby-Sitters

SOUND COMMON SENSE IS shown by the Victoria-Esquimalt health department in sponsoring courses for baby-sitters in this community.

The public has been shocked too often by tragedies which might have been avoided had those left in charge of young children been more competent.

Instruction given by police, fire and first aid experts should equip the young people to cope more efficiently with an emergency—or, more important, forestall one by adequate precautions.

If the students progress to the intricacies of the triangle, Pasadena or the double-oblong fold, they may enhance their value in baby care. If they merely become efficient in avoiding trouble in the home, or in learning how to cope with it when it arises, they will add greatly to the peace of mind of those who hire them.

Canada Finds Itself at the Crossroads

OTTAWA—Canada now approaches the great crossroads of its modern life. One road leads to complete economic domination by the United States; the other into a new trans-Atlantic economy. For the moment the terrain ahead is blurred by a mist of technical debate but the mist is lifting. Parliament begins, at least, to realize that the nation financed a two-year budgetary debauch by mortgaging itself to a rich neighbor, but the financial consequences of this foreign debt, large as they may be, are only the immediate symptoms of a much graver problem.

Hutchison

Is Canada to commit its whole economic future to North America or spread its interests across the Atlantic in a new partnership of the Western World? Will it even have the chance to choose between these alternatives? This is the permanent, fundamental issue behind the argument of temporary, changing fiscal policy.

ALREADY Canada has moved a long way toward outright dependence on the American commodity market for the sale of its exports and for its source of imports. Since it runs a huge trading deficit in that market, covered by an increasing foreign debt, Canada is increasingly dependent on its neighbor's financial power.

When it must buy, sell and borrow mainly in a single foreign nation, Canada's dependence on the United States is far greater than it has ever been before in peacetime. And that dependence is growing.

As Mr. Pearson said in Parliament the other day, we have lately witnessed "increased integration of our national society in all its activities with our neighbor, the United States of America. We have increased integration in trade, in defence, and in development . . . We have increasing integration in energy resources because they are moving north and south instead of east and west . . . We have increased integration in communications and indeed in almost every place of national growth."

THE figures documenting this integration have been spread across Hansard but so far have served mainly to confuse Parliament. Incidentally they have opened a basic quarrel within the Government between the Finance Department, which fears more American borrowings, and the Trade Department, which regards them as harmless.

From this statistical avalanche one fact stands out starkly like a mountain peak. It is that we have lately lost our historic counterweight to American economic and financial power.

We used to incur an habitual deficit in trade with the United States and pay for it comfortably by a surplus in trade with Europe. Today we are in deficit on both sides of the ocean. The old Atlantic Triangle has broken down, leaving us based overwhelmingly on the market, the money and the good will of our neighbor.

THE whole financial structure of Canada, its interest rate, the value of its dollar and the operations of all its governments are at the mercy of the American investor's whim. If he should decide to curtail his export of capital to Canada, or perhaps repatriate some of it, the results, as men like Mr. Coyne have been warning us, could be demoralizing.

But there is more to it than that. Among others, Mr. Davie Fulton, Minister of Justice, foresaw years ago the end of the present road. "Economic domination by the U.S.A., unless stopped," he said in Parliament, "would lead to political domination."

Until recently Mr. Diefenbaker uttered the same sort of warning. His political campaigns of 1957 and 1958 were based largely on the cry that the Liberal Government was allowing Canada to become a United States' satellite, and he proposed to halt this process of surrender by diverting Canadian trade from America to Britain and the Commonwealth.

AFTER two years of office, Mr. Diefenbaker finds that Canadian trade not only is more concentrated than ever before in the United States but is now, for the first time, accumulating deficits in Europe. The situation which used to disturb the Prime Minister and Mr. Fulton is far worse than it was when the present Government came to power.

Yet, as Mr. Pearson reminds the Government, the slide into American economic domination "is not being stopped." On the contrary, it moves at an accelerating rate as our trading deficit increases and will probably reach a new peak this year; as we increasingly meet it by borrowing American capital, both for industrial development and daily housekeeping costs; as our high interest rates, raised by federal borrowings, increasingly drive junior governments and business corporations to new borrowings in Wall Street.

SUDDENLY a new development cuts like a knife through this process of North American integration.

The Common Market of Europe, and its rival, the Outer Seven, threaten on the one hand to reduce our business across the Atlantic and force us still further into the American orbit. On the other, they give us the opportunity to diversify our interests, spread our risks and fortify our national independence. As the next dispatch will try to show, the choice between the threat and the opportunity will soon confront Canada with an irrevocable decision.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

'Crime' of Illness

The following news item appeared in Victoria Daily Times of February 8:

"VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Yuk Kim, a Korean who worked as an interne at Vancouver General Hospital, has been ordered deported by the immigration department on grounds of unsatisfactory health. There is no appeal against such a ruling. A health report on Dr. Kim said he has possibly active pulmonary tuberculosis and needs treatment."

In Canada we are allowing reprieves from the gallows for murderers. Is being ill so heinous a crime that we are compelled to condemn this unfortunate man to possible death by deporting him to Korea where hospital facilities to treat such cases are limited indeed?

Speaking for the Birds

As I guess you have noticed we Robins are back again. We haven't been long away for to tell the truth we Robins like Victoria.

That is we used to like it here, we and a whole lot of other birds, for nowadays we birds have a hard time all over and it's even worse down South.

It's awful there, some families of us have almost been wiped out. What with all these housing developments, poison sprays and poluted rivers, we don't know where to turn for food.

But I know Victoria and I know the kind people of Victoria and how they like us birds. The people even tell their friends to follow us to Victoria.

I guess you are wondering why I'm writing this letter? Well the other night I was sitting on a TV aerial taking a count of all the swamps, fields, bush, and other places that had been ruined for us birds since last year, and I realized how hard it was going to be for a lot of our shy relations to find anywhere to nest this year.

While I was sitting there on that aerial a man started to speak (you know we birds listen in quite a bit), and he started talking about Thetis Lake Park.

Now that's a favorite spot of mine. I courted a fine young Robin there last year. So you can just imagine how it made my feathers shake when I heard they were giving a bit of it to the B.C. Electric.

The man said it was only a little bit, but I can tell you that that bit was a special favorite with a lot of us birds.

We Robins had told these other birds who had had such a hard time down South and a lot of them were coming up here to raise their families on good, clean food and fresh air. But if the B.C. Electric slash their way in there it won't be much good for any of us, and what's worse, I'll never again be a B.C. booster for the birds.

ROBIN.

No Friends of Labor

May I comment on the report of Randolph Harding, MLA? He is quoted as saying, "The big issue in the next election will be private or public power," implying that public ownership under the CCF would benefit the great majority of the people, which is absolutely contrary to the facts.

In contrast to the above, we have reports that "Britain acts to head off a railway strike." These railways have been operating under public ownership for years, yet we find the workers compelled to resort to strike action, in order to obtain a decent wage.

Labor Minister Edward Heath decided to intervene when the Trade Union Congress, which is opposed to strike action, failed to break the union's demand for increased pay. It should be clear to anyone who cares to investigate that public ownership in any form means centralizing the form of ownership, to economize in producing wealth or services, to eliminate all unnecessary labor, but to provide good jobs for certain union officials.

When the workers understand these facts they will realize that instead of the CCF being the friends of labor, they are, in fact, labor's greatest enemy; and should be treated as such.

WASHINGTON:

International Court

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE Senate foreign relations committee has been holding hearings on a resolution which, curiously and remarkably enough, was introduced by Sen. Humphrey and has the ardent support of Vice-President Nixon. This, as Mr. K. might say, is an instance where a shrimp has whistled. The Humphrey resolution has the full backing of the Administration and it is likely to command the support of the Democratic leadership. There are, to be sure, dissenters who are seriously worried that the acceptance of the resolution will be an abdication of American sovereignty.

Lippmann

But they are a small minority as compared with the huge non-partisan majority which includes so many of the leading lawyers of the country.

The Humphrey resolution would repeal what is known as the Connally Amendment to the original Senate Resolution No. 196. This resolution, which was adopted in 1946, called for the deposit of a declaration accepting the compulsory jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice. This is the court set up under the charter of the United Nations. The United States was perhaps its leading advocate.

Before the Connally Amendment was adopted the 1946 resolution said that "in relation to any other state accepting the same obligation" the United States accepts the compulsory jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice "in all legal disputes" which come under four classes of cases.

Compulsory Jurisdiction

The International Court is to have compulsory jurisdiction in a dispute about (1) the interpretation of a treaty, (2) any question of international law, (3) the existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of an international obligation, and (4) the nature or extent of the reparation to be made for the breach of an international obligation.

The 1946 Senate resolution says expressly where the compulsory jurisdiction of the court shall not apply. Of these reservations, the important one is that the court shall not have jurisdiction in a "dispute with regard to matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of the United States." The question was then raised in the Senate as to how it was to be decided whether a matter is or is not essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of the United States.

The Senate answered this question in 1946 by accepting the Connally Amendment which added six words to the original text. Because of this amendment the question of whether a matter is essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of the United States is to be "determined by the United States." This is the amendment that both Sen. Humphrey and Vice-President Nixon want to repeal.

Right to Stop Court

As the law stands today, the United States government has the right to exclude the court whenever it desires to do so, without having to prove or to argue its position when it declares that the case is "domestic." This means that while we have agreed to compulsory jurisdiction in legal disputes, we have in fact reserved the right to stop the court's proceedings.

As a result, no other nation with which we have a dispute can be compelled to come before the court. What is sauce for the goose is also sauce for the gander. Under the Connally Amendment we cannot be sued without our consent. But equally we cannot sue anyone else without his consent.

This reduces the International Court of Justice to a kind of small sideshow. It is no doubt the reason why, despite all the international disputes with which the world is beset, the International Court has so few cases before it.

The question raised in Congress now is whether our government or the International Court itself shall decide whether a matter is domestic. The dissenters, who believe that the Connally Amendment must be retained, argue that the court might take jurisdiction in a dispute which challenged our tariff laws, our immigration laws, our currency laws, our administration of the Panama Canal. These fears, though understandable, are groundless.

If the court took jurisdiction in domestic matters, it would be violating its own statute which expressly limits its jurisdiction to international legal disputes.

Appeal Through UN

It is conceivable, although it is in the highest degree unlikely, that the court might violate the law which created it. But if it did that, there would be a remedy. We would have an indubitable grievance and we would be entitled, legally and morally, to challenge the court by political action in the United Nations.

There is, therefore, no risk which would leave us helpless. On the other hand, the advantages of building up the jurisdiction of the court are very great.

Perhaps the most important of these advantages is one that the vice-president pointed out in an address last April. If the richer nations, like the United States, are to export capital to assist the underdeveloped countries, there must be legal security for the investments they make. To create that security the International Court can have a big part to play.

Indeed, in view of what is happening in this hemisphere to affect American property abroad, we have an interest that every property dispute, as with Castro today, should be decided by a court and not be left to propaganda, agitation, coercion, and force. But if we want to be able to go to court to protect our rights, we must be willing to go to court when someone else has a grievance against us.

ON THE TIMES By ART STOTT

So You're Picking a Career

THIS is the season when some high schools arrange their "Career Days" and business and professional people pop up like the crocus with talks on "What's My Line."

Stott

The purpose of these events, if I understand them correctly, is to have someone of some experience in a vocation tell youngsters who think they'd like to enter it what they should do to prepare themselves and what they can expect from the job if they get it.

I don't know what other people tell the students—whether they try to sell their particular line or not. My approach is simple. I tell them I'd love to be retired on a big income, but that since I have to work, the job I hold is the one I prefer to any that I've investigated. And I tell them why.

At their age I wasn't told. I just had a sort of hankering to get into a newspaper—a nebulous sort of concept created, probably, by too many movies faking newspaper work and an equally vague idea that maybe I could write. When I found out, it was too late.

And when I was a little older than they are now, kids didn't have too much opportunity to pick their vocations. We were heading into the hungry thirties and jobs were hard to come by.

* * *

I was one of the lucky ones. I got what I wanted. But it wasn't exactly what I'd expected.

At the time the omniscience of youth was mine. Perhaps there were some things I didn't know, but they seemed negligible. Disposition, training and conceit had prepared me for a position of responsibility. Three weeks after I'd started, I began to appreciate the educational effects of filling inkwells and paste pots, answering the telephones, running out for cigarets for seniors and laboring half an hour over a three-line item for a local column.

Nothing de-snobs a young snob more effectively than being a "fetchit" for people not much older than himself. The lessons in humility in those days were emphatic and effective.

It makes you wonder how high school students today regard the prospect of getting a job. Some, I guess, are just as nervous as were members of my generation. But in the war and immediate postwar years they were given to believe that youth was being served, that they could find spots in almost any field they wanted, that it wasn't too necessary to extend themselves and that if parts of the job were hard, they could always skip those parts or chuck the job.

The idea seemed to be—and some of it may have sprung from a certain educational philosophy—that the job should be molded to fit the personality to assure proper adjustment.

It's too late for that point of view now. Jobs are available. Only jobs have to be earned. Maybe we're a long way from the hungry thirties, but half an effort isn't good enough today.

It seems to me that career day speakers ought to emphasize that point when they make their pitches this year. Some of them are doing it.

* * *

I don't suppose any era in history offered the variety in employment available today. Occupations are changing—as they always have. New ones are developing as industry and business apply science to their operations. New concepts of old techniques are emerging. The sky's no longer the limit. You can go way out beyond it.

But the youngsters should keep one thing in mind. When they contemplate careers, they're looking ahead to the work they want to do. The operative word is work.

No one has told me how to exist between the time the folks stop keeping you at school and the state steps in to look after you in old age, unless you work.

It's a little sad for those of us with a well-defined philosophy of leisure, but that's the way it goes. So the youngsters should try to pick the socially-acceptable activity for which they're equipped and which promises them the most satisfaction and happiness—and then look at the price tag on what they've chosen. It's spelled out in terms of effort. If they're lucky, the price is right.

YOUR HEALTH By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Typhoid Carriers

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic
and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Some people want to know if typhoid carriers are quarantined. No; I haven't heard of their being quarantined, but health authorities will insist that they must never work as a cook. A typhoid carrier who works as a cook is almost criminal because a number of the people for whom he prepares food are likely to get typhoid fever, and some may die of it. Unfortunately, in many places, the health department authorities are unable to restrain a typhoid carrier as strictly as they would like to.

Alvarez

I remember a friend of mine, a professor of bacteriology, who once was asked to go to a big construction camp to find out why so many of the workers were coming down with typhoid fever. He quickly found that the head cook was a carrier, and had him fired. A few weeks after he got back to his university, he got a telegram from another big construction camp, saying, "Our men are coming down with typhoid fever, come and help us." All my friend did was to telegraph "What is the name of your cook?" Sure enough, as he expected, they had promptly hired the man who had been fired from the other camp.

In many of these cases the typhoid germs have lived for years in the person's gallbladder, and then the removal of the gallbladder may work a cure.

Every so often I read of a severe epidemic of "food poisoning" perhaps with fever, diarrhea and great prostration. This involved most of the people who went to a big church picnic. Practically always what happened was that a woman who was a carrier of para-typhoid germs was asked by the committee to prepare a big dish-pan full of spaghetti. She made it the night before, at which times she got the material infected from her hands. By next noon, the germs had grown and grown until the spaghetti contained billions of them.

* * *

People want to know what is a hypochondriac, and probably the best definition is, a man or woman who for years remains convinced he or she has some one disease, such as cancer or heart trouble—and cannot be reassured. I was just reading of a man in a hospital who got the idea that a slight bony protuberance of his skull on one side was a cancer.

Every chance he got he would waylay a doctor and ask him anxiously about his "lump." Every doctor, day after day, told him it was nothing, but all this reassurance failed to cheer him in the slightest.

One day a wealthy man of 60 came a long distance to see me about a cancer he was sure he had in his stomach. He travelled with a trained nurse to take care of his health. He admitted he had seen a large number of consultants, all of whom had assured him he had no cancer. But he still was sure he had it.

As, just then, I was very busy, and did not want to waste any time I asked him if he would be satisfied enough to go home well if I were to get a surgeon to open his abdomen, under local anesthesia, and to lift out his stomach and show him that it was normal. Very honestly, he said "No," that that would not convince him. So we parted good friends, and he left to go and see a prominent stomach specialist he had just heard of.

3,000-MPH AIRLINERS WILL GO STRAIGHT UP

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of Canada's leading aviation engineers predicted Monday that a 3,000-mile-an-hour aircraft that will take off and land vertically should be in airline use by 1975.

Jack T. Dyment, chief engineer for Trans-Canada Air Lines, predicted that advanced short-range jets will be available by 1965 to take over from the Viscount and other such turbo-prop aircraft.

MACLEOD
. . . his plan accepted

Freedom Nearer In Kenya

LONDON (Reuters) — Kenya, Britain's East African colony, seems destined for a bigger dose of democracy in the next few months.

Three of four Kenya groups meeting here since Jan. 18 to advise Britain on the colony's political future indicated approval Monday of a plan to give the Negro majority more say in their government.

Negro representatives, Asian and Arab minority delegates and the multi-racial New Kenya party generally endorsed constitutional changes outlined at the conference last Friday by British Colonial Secretary Iain Macleod. The right-wing White United party rejected Macleod's plan.

NEGRO MAJORITY

The proposed changes would give Kenya's 6,250,000 Negroes majority representation in the colony's legislative assembly. They also would provide safeguards for the minority groups—some 65,000 white settlers, about 170,000 Indians and Pakistanis and 36,000 Arabs.

The conference adjourned for two days to allow a committee to draft a "bill of rights" in the colony.

Macleod promised he would consider "reservations" voiced by some delegates before making final recommendations to the government.

If the government approves the recommendations, the next step will be for Governor Sir Patrick Renison of Kenya to prepare for a general election under the new system. It is expected early in 1961.

The proposals fall short of original African demands for independence and full democracy on a one-man, one-vote system.

Ronald Ngala, leader of the 14 African delegates, said Macleod's proposals "certainly fall short of the expectations of the Africans in Kenya, but it is a step in the right direction."

"We aceept them as a basis for the next interim constitution," Ngala added. "We shall go on pressing for every adult to get his basie right of one vote and for independence."

Doyle Case 'Blackmail'

MONTREAL (CP) — Noel Dorion, lawyer for John C. Doyle, president of Canadian Javelin, Limited, said Monday charges of theft and fraud against his client are an "obvious case of blackmail".

He said in court James S. Benning, of Montreal, who signed the complaint against Doyle, is acting on behalf of his brother-in-law, Robert Sherwood, also of Montreal. Doyle is suing Mr. Sherwood in another court for recovery of Javelin stock.

"We are faced with an obvious case of blackmail," Mr. Dorion charged, summing up a long series of technical arguments asking that the charges against Doyle be dismissed.

Greater Aid to 'Have Nots' Called West's Biggest Job

The chronic imbalance in the control of world resources calls for extended Western world aid to "have not" Eastern countries, D. R. F. Brower, United Kingdom information officer, Vancouver, told the Men's Canadian Club here Monday.

He spoke again later to the Women's Canadian Club.

"We should all be called upon to give greater thought and aid than we have done before," he said.

This should be "one of the biggest tasks" to confront the West in the 60s, he stated.

SIX BILLION

Extended assistance is needed because of the "explosion" of world population which will see population doubled to nearly six billion within the next 40 years.

The present problem, he pointed out, is that the Western world contains only 14 per cent of world population, yet controls 55 per cent of world resources.

The gap between the "have" and "have not" countries is being broadened yearly with the population increase, Mr. Brower said.

This situation is full of danger as countries are already split on nationalistic lines and poorer countries are ripe for nationalistic exploitation.

If extended aid, both economic and technological, is not forthcoming from the West, eventual results could be "terrible," Mr. Brower stated.

"We in the West should be called on to solve this problem to a greater extent than ever before."

The populations of the East are rapidly increasing, but not economic production, and without the latter standards of living they will get nowhere.

GOOD EXAMPLE

He cited Britain's $300 million loan to India for steel plant construction—with 1,000 East Indian technicians trained in Britain to take over operation when the plant is completed — as an example of Britain's attempts to solve the imbalance.

Britain today, he said, was operating in "an atmosphere of vigorous well-being," after the postwar uphill struggle.

Cost of living has reached a "plateau" of levelling off while unemployment was just over 2 per cent of the 24,000,000 working force.

And of this percentage, well over half were sick or only temporarily unemployed, he said.

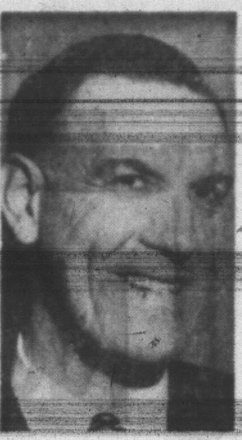
ONE FOR THREE

Five years ago Britain had one car for every seven families; today there is a car for every three families.

Numbers of television sets had reached the "saturation point" for the country's 52,000,000 population.

The National Health Service had made a "notable" contribution towards community well-being, marked by a decline in hospital cases in the past five years, Mr. Brower said.

British workers in the last two years had averaged only a 90-minute time loss each per year.



CONFERENCE of provincial-municipal leaders to discuss the "financing straight jacket" hampering civic governments was called for Monday by Mayor Tom Alsbury of Vancouver, in an address before the Victoria Gyro Club. Mayor Alsbury said the B.C. budget brought down Friday was no help to municipalities.

ALASKA BUZZED . . . WAS IT A PLANE?

Mystery Fire-Streak From Russia

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (CP) —A mystery object hurtled through western Alaska skies late Sunday from the direction of Russian Siberia, the Anchorage Times reported Monday.

A Wien Alaska airlines employee at Nome, Pete Walsh, said the flame-belching object appeared to be a manned aircraft travelling at tremendous speed about 2,000 to 3,000 feet above the earth.

Walsh told the Times the object was headed southeast in the direction of this Alaska city and was sighted later at Unalakleet and St. Michael about 150 miles across Norton Sound from Nome.

Walsh also said the craft was monitored by two radar stations near Nome.

He described the object as silvery and tubular, somewhat like a jet plane, with orange flame shooting from the tail. He was unable to tell if it had wings.

Others who saw the mysterious aerial intruder said it curved up and away as it approached Cape Nome, as if it was manned and controlled.

Military sources here declined comment about the sighting.

ON SHELBOURNE

'Gas Alley' Battle Looms

Saanich council Monday by a vote of four to three approved the preparation of a zoning bylaw to permit the construction of gasoline station at the corner of Pear and Shelbourne Streets.

But the bylaw, one of the most controversial to face council this year, is expected to be voted down at its next meeting as it has to have a two-thirds majority for its passage.

Reeve George Chatterton, supported by Councillors Stanley Murphy and George Austin, voted against the bylaw on the grounds that it would set the stage for making Shelbourne a "gasoline alley" which would result in ribbon development and increased traffic hazards.

"If I live long enough I will vote the same," said Coun. Austin who surprised council by voting against the bylaw at the last moment.

Voting in favor were Councillors Leslie Passmore, Harold Todd, Gregory Cook and Ainslee Worthington—one vote short to ensure passage of the measure at the next council meeting.

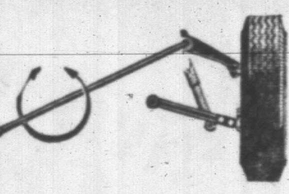
WORTH MORE BECAUSE THEY WORK MORE:

Compare this list of Chevy advances with the features ordinary trucks are still talking about. You'll see why Chevy trucks get more work done in a day...why they go extra thousands of miles before trade-in time. These Sturdi-Bilt Trucks aren't just new; they're a full scale revolution!

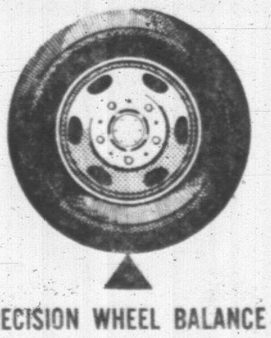


TORSION-SPRING RIDE

Each front wheel, suspended independently of the other, is free to step individually over bumps. And shockproof torsion springs up front soak up the jars and jolts before they reach the body. With three rugged new tailored-to-the-truck rear suspensions to further reduce road shocks, Chevy gives you the smoothest truck ride you've ever felt.

NO SHIMMY, NO WHEEL FIGHT

Drive a '60 Chevy. Just once. Right away you'll notice the absence of I-beam shimmy and wheel fight common on ordinary trucks. With independent front suspension there's a brand new, smoother, easier handling feel behind the wheel.



PRECISION WHEEL BALANCE

Front wheels are balanced electronically before the truck ever leaves the factory. Helps make that new ride revolutionary.

CRUISE WHERE OTHERS CREEP

Torsion-Spring Ride takes the bounce out of bumps. It's a ride that cradles the load and the driver. A ride that allows faster safe speeds over roughest roads to get more work done in a day's time.

PEDALS ARE SUSPENDED

Suspended pedals need less effort to depress; give you more room to stretch your legs out on long hauls. They also eliminate floor holes, sealing out dirt, moisture, fumes and road noise.

EASIER TO HOP IN

Chevy doors are wider and floors on many models are a whole seven inches lower (without sacrificing road clearance) so it's a lot easier to hop in and out of these cabs. This new cab design pays off big by adding comfort and convenience to reduce driver fatigue.

TOUGHER, MORE TWIST-RESISTANT FRAMES

They're closest to "unbreakable" a truck frame ever came. More rigid, more twist-resistant — with a new X-member reinforcement in most light-duty frames; greater beam strength in many of the bigger models. Chevy's bulldozer build starts right here!

CABS FOR BIG DRIVERS

Big guys get a bigger break in a Chevy cab. There's plenty of space inside to stretch out and relax; more room for hats and hips, more room for wide shoulders and long legs. There's horizon-wide visibility through a windshield with 26% more glass area; a new see-at-a-glance instrument panel. Cabs are safer, too, up to 67% more rigid.

CABS CUSHIONED ON RUBBER MOUNTS

New four-point cab mounting, with rubber cushions to isolate road shock, quiets the ride, keeps down sheet metal vibration.

BRAKES ARE BIGGER

Bigger brakes bring loaded Chevies to safer, surer stops. Extra-wide linings wear longer, reduce maintenance expense. Chevy gives you the best in braking — from efficient torque-action brakes in light-duty models to powerful full-air brakes in heavyweights.

LOW, LOW UPKEEP COSTS

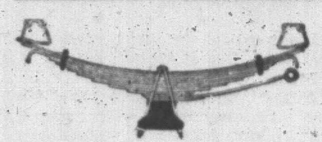
Chevy's built the way every truck should be built. For one thing, the big rugged fender crown hinges right back. That means easier access to Chevrolet's unbeatable power plants. You cut routine maintenance and upkeep costs to the minimum. Another way Chevrolet gives you a short cut to higher profit hauling.

6'S SWORN TO SAVE

Chevy's 6-cylinder engines are set to squeeze extra miles out of every drop of fuel. They're long famous for low fuel consumption, high performance.

LIGHT-HANDED STEERING, EVEN IN THE BIG ONES

A new steering linkage system that cuts vibration means easier driver control with less effort. Coupled to a low friction ball-gear steering mechanism, steering is light, firm and positive. Greatly reduces driver fatigue. Power steering is available at extra cost on many models.

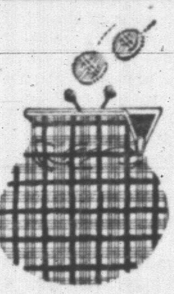


VARI-RATE LEAF SPRINGS WITH UP TO TWICE THE LIFE

Spring firmness varies with the load. At full capacity, spring firmness increases as much as four times. Results in a smoother ride empty or loaded. Means springs last up to twice as long. Available on Viking Medium-duty and Spartan Heavy-duty models.

SHORT STROKE V8'S

Power-packed for peak performance. Chevy's husky V8's make child's play out of the toughest hauls. They have a mind tuned to economy, too, that keeps costs down, profits up.



DOLLAR-SAVING ECONOMY

Chevrolet's all-round savings make the big truck news for '60. For up-and-at-'em performance, day-in-day-out dependability, top gasoline mileage, far longer truck life, plus the industry's highest resale value, no other truck begins to compare with Chevrolet. Get your share of the savings very soon.

SEE YOUR DEALER

It could be the most important visit you make in '60. When you've seen these new Chevies, you'll agree they're the world's most advanced trucks. Then drive one and find out why.

Price-Fixing Case Resumes

MONTREAL (CP) — The Crown has rested its case at the trial of 17 pulp and paper companies charged with a price-fixing conspiracy under the Restrictive Trade Practices Act.

Defence lawyers will begin their arguments when the trial continues before Mr. Justice Harry Batshaw.

The trial resumed after having been suspended since mid-December because of Mr. Justice Batshaw's illness. It began Oct. 13.

More than 1,500 documents have been filed by the prosecution.

Soviet Advance In World Oil Draws Warning

NEW YORK (AP)—Russia's advance in the world oil market must be watched with great care, says an executive of a large international oil firm.

"Russia has made tremendous strides, is a net exporter and appears perfectly willing to use its natural resource for political propaganda purposes," Harry W. McCobb, vice-president of Standard-Vacuum Oil Company told the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

McCobb, in a review of foreign oil production last year, noted one dominant theme: the overcapacity to produce. He added that the condition will only worsen as new producing areas hit their stride.

AT and T Hits Over Billion In Earnings

NEW YORK (AP)—American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the world's biggest public utility, earned more than $1,000,000,000 in 1959 for the first time.

Bell system earnings rose to $1,148,769,000 last year from $981,463,000 in 1958, Frederick R. Kappel, president, said in the annual report.

This is equal to $5.11 a share on AT and T stock compared with $4.67 a share a year earlier.

American Telephone thus becomes the second U.S. business to reach the $1,000,000,000-profit plateau. General Motors Corp. did it in 1955, but then slipped back.

Profits Increased

VANCOUVER (CP) — Imperial Investment Corp. has reported a net profit of $610,810 for the six months ended Dec. 31, up from $458,089 in the corresponding period of 1958.

The profit represents earnings of 60 cents a share.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian coarse grain markets had an easier tone today amid liberal offerings on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Flax especially declined with selling influenced partly by easier vegetable oil markets in the United States and abroad. Some flax contracts reached new seasonal lows.

Oats and barley trade also was easier, with commission houses on the selling side. Rye business was hesitant.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: Germany 260,000 bushels, United Kingdom 855,000, and Algeria 35,000.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat all were one-eighth cent lower than Monday.

CHICAGO (AP)—After absorbing moderate to heavy general selling most of the day, the grain futures market showed strong signs of a fairly broad recovery movement at times in the early afternoon.

Losses which had run into major fractions in the grains had been wiped out in some instances and sharply reduced in others. Nearby wheat and rye contracts posted gains on active short covering.

Soybeans, hardest hit in early trading, declined a cent or more on old crop deliveries but the setbacks had been trimmed somewhat shortly before the close.

'LOOK OUT, M'AM . . . YOU MIGHT FALL DOING THAT!'

Manoeuvres like this can lead to points if you succeed and sympathy if you don't. At the moment photographer snapped this formful exercise by young Russian figure skaters, practicing for Winter Olympic Games which open Thursday at Squaw Valley, Oleg Protopopov and Ludmila Belousova succeeded in drawing "ooohs" and "aaahs" from spectators at practice rink. This is first time Russia has entered figure skating competitors in Winter Olympics. Canada's Bob Paul and Barbara Wagner are considered duo to beat in figure skating pairs. Controversy today rocked the Olympic scene. See story on Page 9. (AP Wirephoto.)

Flora Gets Good Start In Race for B.C. Title

VERNON (CP) — Prince George housewife Flo Gustafson and Victoria's Flora Martin were the only unbeaten rinks starting today's play in the annual B.C. Ladies' Curling Association playdowns, which opened here Monday.

Both recorded two wins and received a bye in Monday's three draws of the round-robin series to determine the provincial representative at the Western Canada championships in Victoria March 15.

Notching two successive victories and then suffering their first setback in the night competition were Kimberley's Ina Hanson and Irene Fraser of Vancouver.

Mrs. Martin's rink, including Beth Sealy, Edythe Pick and Bess Day, had no difficulty with the opposition.

Making her first start, Mrs. Martin turned back Mrs. Frances Turner's West Kootenay champions from Trail, 11-5.

The Victoria rink drew a bye in the second draw, then came back in the third draw to trim Mrs. Dorothy Fisher's North Okanagan rink from Kamloops 12-7.

Two straight losses by the highly favored Betty Tansley quartet of Vancouver provided the biggest surprise of the day's play.

In the morning she fell before veteran campaigner Ina Hanson 9-8 and crashed to Kamloops' Dot Fisher foursome 10-6 in the afternoon.

Mrs. Tansley finally hit her stride by dropping Shirley Stephens of New Westminster 9-7 in the third round.

Emerging as a strong contender for the title was Mrs. Gustafson, who was runnerup in the 1954 championships.

Without a win at the end of the day's play were Stephens with three losses and Frances Turner of Trail, a two-time loser.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK—Money couldn't bribe Joe DiMaggio to perform after he decided his thrilling skills had been disabled by use. The management of the Yankees proposed that he accept $100,000 for a final season of part-time labor.

TED WILLIAMS

They intended to allow Di Maggio to decide when he was capable of working and promised they would not compel him to try if he contended he was incapable. The greatest player of his age declined their proposition.

The people who own the Boston Red Sox wish Ted Williams had DiMaggio's unselfish pride. The outfielder is prolonging his farewell but those who pay him a pricely sum each year wish he would make his last good-bye. They believe he is crippling the team with his obstinacy and they don't think he is earning his pay. But they won't fire him and he will go along, dragging through another season, sore with the aches athletic senility brings.

The knowledge that he might be remembered as a middle-aged pensioner victimized by his middle-aged body affronted DiMaggio. It was his contention that a player should be loyal to the buffs' image of him. But DiMaggio was always a guy who accepted the burden of his fame.

His devotion to his team caused Connie Mack to describe him to me as the greatest of all players when you measured him as one of nine. That was always Williams' flaw. He was a soloist, making the game of baseball not a contest played by a team but a recital by a batsman.

The last man to hit .400 in the big leagues, Williams was a mark for pitchers last season. Pitchers, who were intimidated by Williams since he came up from San Diego 20 years ago, ridiculed his inefficiency. Always an uncertain and slow outfielder with a reputation for cranky malingering, Williams was worthless in left. On 103 games, plagued by constant injuries, the sport's only .400 hitter batted .254, struck only 14 homers and drove in 44 runs.

* * *

The Red Sox players dislike him. They compared him to DiMaggio, during the years of Red Sox-Yankee rivalry, and he suffered in their estimation. The spectators were insulted by him and he has been denounced for making obscene gestures, spitting and for his insulting tirades. The animosity between Williams and the baseball journalists is forever. Now his bosses, who have generously defended him in all his controversies, are stuck with him.

* * *

What happened to his team never appeared to concern Williams. He acted as if they were assistants instead of partners. Seldom did he praise them in his interviews which he granted only to journalists who expressed unqualified admiration for him.

Managers couldn't handle him. Even Joe McCarthy, the best of his time, backed off. But by then Williams had established himself as a guy beyond discipline. His original manager was Joe Cronin, now president of the American League, a good-natured guy who treated ballplayers kindly.

"Joe's a nice guy," said an old Red Sox player recently. "I don't mean that as a knock. He's a decent man and Williams took advantage of him. I saw it happen the first year Ted was in the big league. Mose Grove lost a tough ball game, 1-0. The clubhouse was like a funeral parlor. No one said a word.

* * *

"Williams got a couple of good hits that day. You would have thought we just won the pennant, the way he acted. He stood up in front of his locker and showed how he got those hits.

* * *

"We all looked at Cronin. He didn't say a word. He didn't tell him to shut up or anything. Joe should have jumped on him then and there. Joe didn't. I think that's the day Williams was lost."

This is the memory of Ted Williams that has lasted with one guy who played with him. The public never had such an intimate glimpse. But already they are talking of him as a has-been struggling through the agony of a final tournament instead of as one of the great hitters in all the seasons of baseball.

BOXLA BATTLES START IN APRIL THIS SEASON

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Intercity Lacrosse League will open its schedule during the last week of April this year—more than a week earlier than normal.

Tommy Gordon, secretary of the three-man commission that will operate the league this season, said Monday the earlier season was arranged to enable the league to send a team to Ontario by Sept. 11 for the start of the Mann Cup series.

Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria and Nanaimo are all again in the league this year.

Only Three Rinks With Clean Slates

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — Only three of the 11 competing rinks started with clean slates today after two rounds of the Canadian high school curling championships.

The round-robin bonspiel featured superb curling Monday after the boys got over jitters that caused them to fluff easy shots in early stages of opening games.

Coming out of the early rounds with 2-0 records were rinks representing Saskatchewan, always a highly-rated threat in this event, Nova Scotia and Northern Ontario.

Behind the leaders with one win and one loss were Alberta, New Brunswick, Manitoba and Ontario. Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island were winless in two tries and Quebec and British Columbia, which drew the opening-day byes, lost their only starts.

Howe Has Leafs' Baun in Stitches

DETROIT (CP) — Toronto Maple Leaf defenceman Bobby Baun received a severe cut across his scalp that required 18 stitches in Sunday night's hockey game with Detroit Red Wings.

Baun suffered the deep cut that bled freely when Detroit's Gordie Howe rode him into the glass atop the boards behind the Red Wings' goal in the third period. No penalty was called on the play.

Toronto won the game 3-1.

Gift Nag Wins $1,120

LONDON (AP)—Never look a gift horse in the mouth.

Capt. Francis Sadowski of the United States Air Force remembered this old saying when a friend gave him a broken-down racehorse.

The nine-year-old nag named Happier Landings won two races in eight days and netted Sadowski $1,120.

"He's been given away twice," Sadowski says. "Can't [illegible] "looks fit as a fiddle and I'm sure he'll win a lot more races yet."

Sadowski, 39, was filling in soccer pool coupons at a pub recently when horse trainer John Roberts saw him.

"Why waste your money on that?" Roberts asked. "Try horse racing."

"Sure," Sadowski replied, "that's why I'm playing the [illegible] buy a horse."

"Okay," said Roberts. "You are a racehorse owner. You can have Happier Landings."

An accident knocked the horse out of racing in 1956. He came back but broke down in a race two years ago.

Roberts nursed him back to health and everything seems bright for Happier Landings and Sadowski.

Tars Should Excel At Hitting Pacific

Navy Grabs Big Lead In Playoff

Navy 7, Pattersons 1

Only an attack of cholera or a sudden inability to hit the Pacific Ocean with a puck today appears in the way of Victoria's Navy team sweeping the Commercial Hockey League final.

The sweet-skating Tars proved Tuesday night what everyone knows — they are easily the class of the CHL.

Scoring in every period, Navy swept past Pattersons, 7-1 before 1,000 customers at Memorial Arena. This effort, accomplished effortlessly, gave Navy a six-goal bulge in their two-game total-goal series for the loop's playoff crown.

The second game will be played at the Arena Wednesday, at 8.30 p.m.

Pattersons had hopes but no answers last night to Navy's formidable atack and almost impenetrable defence.

TWO-GOAL TARS

Cliff Uhren and Dave Hill took care of the former. Each had a pair of goals and Uhren threw in an assist.

Paul Lapointe, John Morris and Roy Derry contributed the other Navy markers.

Whatever ambitions Pattersons had of balking Navy's march to the Coy Cup intermediate playoffs were stifled by Art Morton.

Talented enough to be recruited as a single game replacement by Vancouver Canucks this season, Morton was a one-man Gibraltar in the Navy net.

For two periods he thwarted and frustrated every serious attempt by Pattersons. In the meantime Navy had built an insurmountable 5-0 lead.

Jack Milburn finally found the solution at 10.55 of the final period, poking the puck past Morton on a striking solo effort.

Rather than inspire his mates to greater feats, the goal seemed to awaken Navy who tucked two more goals—by Uhren and Morris—into the loser's net before calling it a night.

Pattersons loss was hardly the fault of goalie George Hall.

LESS PRESSURE

He stuck a hand, a glove, a stick or something else in front of 29 shots, 25 of them in the first two periods. Morton had less work—20 shots—but was never under the same pressure.

If Navy succeeds Wednesday, the team will travel to Nanaimo Saturday for the first of a two-game, total-goal series for the Vancouver Island title.

Labatts return the compliment Monday at Memorial Arena.

Summary:

FIRST PERIOD
1. Navy, Uhren (Merrifield, McLeod) 1.46.
2. Navy, Hill (Standley) 3.26.
Penalties: Milburn 11.43, Wiebe 15.46.

SECOND PERIOD
3. Navy, Hill (Standley) 3.13.

The league's player-of-the-week honors went to Gordie Fashoway of Victoria, who had six goals and two assists for eight points.

Hank Bassen, Vancouver, lowered his goals-against average to 2.29 a game to retain his lead among the goalkeepers. Marcel Pelletier, Victoria, was second, with 2.53.

Fleck Flashes Again

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jack Fleck, who for five years was called professional golf's flash-in-the-pan, is back in the winner's circle today after a victory in an 18-hole playoff for top money in the $22,500 Phoenix Open.

Fleck, from Los Angeles, came from behind twice Monday to beat Bill Collins, Crystal River, Fla., by three strokes.

Fleck covered the 6,585-yard Phoenix course in a three-under-par 68. Collins, another of the unsung members of the touring golf circus, was even par.

FIRST SINCE 1955

Fleck, who played in few tournaments during the last four years, returned to the touring trail this season. He won $6,375 last week in the Palm Springs Desert Classic.

He collected $3,150 Monday plus a share of receipts from a gallery of 2,500. It was Fleck's first victory since the 1955 United States Open.

Collins, who has won only one major tournament since joining the tour two years ago, pocketed $2,100.

They tied at 273, 11 strokes under par, in the regulation 72 holes.

Important Session For Babe Ruth Loop

Victoria's Babe Ruth Baseball League, riding high after a successful regional tournament meets tonight at Jaycee Little League Park, Hillside and Cook.

The main business item is election of officers.

Parents of youngsters between 13 and 15 years are invited to attend.

Lopsided Scores In Shuttle Loop

Lopsided scores were fairly common in Lower Vancouver Island Badminton League matches last week.

In third division, section one play, Belmont thumped Victoria College, 15-1. Victoria Lawn juniors vanquished First United by the same score.

First United whacked Cordova Bay 12-4 in fourth division play. Fifth division scores were: First United 12, Shawnigan 4, Duncan 10, Esquimalt 6, and First United 10, Belmont 6.

In sixth division play, Victoria Lawn tied First United 8-8 and overcame Shawnigan 10-6.

Cadets Preparing For Splash Meet

Greater Victoria cadets are getting ready to splash for fun and fame in the first annual cadet corps swimming cadet corps championships at HMCS Naden pool Feb. 23.

Winning team will receive a new trophy donated by Hon. Robert Mayhew.

Competing in the meet, sponsored by United Cadets Services Committee, will be Rainbow Sea Cadets, Canadian Scottish, PPCLI, RCEME and Air Cadets. Each corps will be represented by 13 swimmers.

Juniors Pay for Punching After Topping Pro Record

WINNIPEG (CP)—Players and teams who provoked a near-riot Sunday in a Manitoba Junior Hockey League game were hit by the league Monday with fines, suspensions and a promise of sterner measures for any repetition.

With 52 seconds of overtime left to play Sunday, 29 players from both Brandon Wheat Kings and Winnipeg Rangers benches swarmed to the ice. The only player staying out of the fracas was Rangers' Don McKenzie who had been given a minor penalty and was in the dressing room.

Some of the 1,300 fans joined in the uproar, hurling bottles, paper and debris to the ice.

RULED TIE

Referee Morley Meyers called the game with the 52 seconds unplayed. It went into the records as a 5-5 tie because both Rangers and Wheat Kings already had clinched their positions in the league, Wheat Kings first and Rangers fourth.

Meyers called a total of 412 minutes in penalties in the game. This was believed to be a record. The National Hockey League record is 310 minutes in a Toronto-Montreal game Dec. 9, 1958.

The league Monday fined both clubs $100 and suspended three players. Secretary-manager Terry Hind also said all clubs in the junior league have been warned that any repetition will result in automatic team fines of $500.

The league last year produced the Memorial Cup champion Winnipeg Braves.

SELF-DEFENCE

Officials of both Rangers and Wheat Kings admitted freely that they allowed their players on the bench to get into the fight, but claimed they acted in self-defence.

Jake Milford, Wheat Kings manager, said, "I held our boys back until three of the Rangers were beating up one of ours. I couldn't hold them back any longer, so I let them go."

Ranger coach Gordon Pennell said he allowed his bench to join the fracas as a measure of self-defence only after he saw Brandon players spilling over the boards to outnumber the Rangers.

Bronco Keeps Lead In NHL Point Race

MONTREAL (UPI)—Bronco Horvath, sharp-shooting centre of the Boston Bruins, maintained his lead in the National Hockey League point scoring race last week, picking up two goals and two assists to increase his seasonal point total to 72.

Horvath sports a six-point lead over Jean Beliveau of the Montreal Canadiens, who held on to the second place with a total of 66 points without being [illegible] with any goals or assists during the week's action.

Chicago's Bobby Hull remained in third place with one goal and one assist for a total of 64 points.

Vic Stasiuk, a linemate of Horvath's on the Bruins' Uke line, was in fourth place in the point scoring column with a total of 61. He took over the spot from Henri Richard of Canadiens, who dropped into fifth position with 59 points.

Boston's Harry Lumley chalked up his second shutout in a week's time when the Bruins blanked the New York Rangers, 3-0, on Feb. 14. Johnny Bower, Toronto, and Terry Sawchuk, Detroit, lead in shutouts with four apiece.

Glenn Hall of Chicago has moved into the berth behind Jacques Plante as the goalie on the club with the second least number of goals scored against it. Hall has allowed 149 goals in 56 contests for a 2.66 average. Plante has allowed 137 goals in 55 games for a goals-against average of 2.49.

VIKING VIEWS

ELLERY LITTLETON

Basketball highlighted the scene in a busy week for Victoria University athletes. The Vikings easily defeated Courtenay High School on Friday night, 52-31, but were in turn snowed under by the tall UBC Jayvees on Saturday night, 53-38. The Jayvees controlled rebounds throughout the game, while the Vikings, playing below par, had trouble finding the hoop at all.

The university "B" team lost two games over the weekend, 59-38 to Victoria High on Friday and 53-33 to Courtenay High on Saturday.

Vikings travel to Alberni Thursday for the first of a two-game, total-point series for the Island junior men's championship. Alberni will return the visit on Saturday, tackling the Vikings at Mount View High School at 9 p.m.

If the Vikings get by Alberni, a team that the varsity has beaten soundly once this season, they will meet Vancouver YMCA for the B.C. championship.

The preliminary game at 7.30 Saturday will feature the Vikettes against the Courtenay High School girls.

The Norsemen defeated Belmont High last Tuesday 35-33 and played the university "B" team this afternoon at Gordon Head.

The co-ed grass hockey "B" team lost to the Mariners Saturday afternoon, but the "A" team saved the day by romping to a pair of easy victories.

In a return volleyball match at Royal Roads last Thursday, the men's team lost two out of three games to the cadets. The women, however, managed to defeat Victoria High in two straight games. The men will play Victoria High in a challenge match at 7 tonight on the Vic High court.

The water polo team defeated the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club 9-8 on Sunday on a last-minute goal by Bruce Warburton. The boys will take to the pool at 2.30 on Feb. 28 against Royal Roads.

Although their weekend game was postponed, the university rugby representatives made a memorable showing at the pep meet on Friday, starring Bernie Sinclair as the greenhorn and Lorne Priestly as the ravishing bearded blond.

The soccer players are back in action after a long layoff. The league schedule has just been issued and the club played its first game against Navy this afternoon.

Tribe Sells Baxes To SD for $15,000

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego baseball club of the Pacific Coast League Monday purchased Jim Baxes, 31, heavy-hitting third baseman, from Cleveland Indians, for a price reported in excess of $15,000.

Baxes was sold to Cleveland last year by Los Angeles Dodgers after he had resisted a move of the Dodgers to farm him to Spokane of the Coast League.

He had played with Hollywood, Los Angeles, Portland and San Francisco in the Coast League.

Certainly not the Victoria Amateur Baseball Association.

Commencing tonight at 7.30, the clinic will be held in the North Ward School annex. The clinic was held formerly on Wednesday evenings.

Pre-Olympic Skirmish On 'Squawk' Valley Site

(Compiled From CP and UPI Reports)

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif.—Controversy broke out on two fronts and the injury list spiralled to 14 today with the Winter Olympic Games fast approaching their Thursday opening.

Most severely hurt was Battista Pordon, 20-year-old Italian downhill ski racer. He fell into Squaw Creek Monday, suffering a broken leg, broken arm, broken collarbone, lacerations of the head and internal injuries. Doctors said recovery will take several months.

Luis Molne from Spain suffered a broken leg in a day of increased training that saw the accident rate shoot up and tensions increase.

Traudl Hecher, Austria's pig-tailed pride, splintered her skis when she smashed into a tree near the bottom of the 1⅛-mile women's downhill run. She was shaken but not hurt.

DUTCHMAN HURT

Others injured included Jack Douglas of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's hockey entry. Douglas, 29, suffered a sprained ankle in practice. He is expected to be fine for the tournament.

Australian figure skater Tim Spender suffered a torn knee ligament and skier Marie Luisa Solari of Chile sprained an ankle.

In a move prompted by the two accidents on the men's course, Willy Schaeffler, director of ski events, issued an order for doctors to be stationed at four dangerous points along the run.

One dispute involved hockey, the other selection of the German alpine downhill skiing team.

In Colorado Springs, Colo., Rudolph Eklowe, Swedish delegate to the International Ice Hockey Federation, said hockey will not be played if organizers do not accept an 11-day schedule. A 10-day schedule with no hockey on opening day now is planned.

ICE "ATROCIOUS"

The IHF wants to play two games on opening day, Feb. 18.

But Max Dunn, sports technical director, said the ice arena will be needed for the ceremonies and parts of the rink will have to be dismantled.

Czech coach Eduard Farda said hockey playing conditions are "atrocious." Ice in the indoor arena and outdoor rink was bad.

There were hints that if conditions didn't improve, the Czechs might withdraw from the nine-team field.

"It's a miserable way to run things," said Jack Riley, U.S. team coach. "We were supposed to practice in the arena at 1.30 p.m. But the ice melted and we can't use it. Yet the Czechs had a workout this morning and are scheduled to use an outdoor rink this afternoon. They get two practices and we don't get any."

The Canadians also were displeased at being unable to use the indoor rink for a practice game, and were sent to the outdoor rink.

The Japanese have had poor ice conditions for their two latest practices, against the U.S. Sunday and against Russia today, but they were not complaining. They are here mainly to get experience anyhow and ice condition is not important to them.

The ski hassle involved the all-German team—a combination from West Germany and Communist East Germany.

Herbert Kunze of West Germany nominated Eberhard Riedel of East Germany and three West Germans to the men's alpine team.

"WHY QUALITY"

Others on the West German team said their Fritz Wagenberger, who was left off, had a better record than Riedel, 22, who was named along with Willi Bogner, Ludwig Leitner and Hans Peter Lanig.

The Free West Germans charged by intimation that West German lawyer Herbert Kunze, chief of the overall German team, had "sold out" to the Communists.

"He has been very friendly with Communist sports officials and has been going to their rooms during negotiations," said West German press chief Bruno Moratwetz.

"We skiers are all against him and there is a near revolution in the German team."

The dispute was resolved, on the surface at least, with Riedel put on the German team instead of Wagnerberger.

"I lost the chance of my life because of this ugly political dispute," Wagnerberger said bitterly. "Why the hell do I have to qualify if the qualifying does not count now."

ARCHIE MOORE
. . . loses title

Arch Stripped By Undertaker

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (CP)—The National Boxing Association has stripped ancient Archie Moore of his world light-heavyweight title—something a challenger never accomplished.

The NBA took the action Monday for what association president Anthony Maceroni said was Moore's inactivity. Arch was recently warned to sign for a defence by February 15.

At his home in San Diego, Calif., Moore said: "It took an undertaker (Maceroni's occupation) to take the title away from me."

Then he went to bed and took sedatives on the advice of a doctor.

The NBA was also looking over the welterweight situation and contemplating action against world king Don Jordan.

MEETS PARET

However, Jordan's handlers announced in Los Angeles, Monday night, that he will defend his championship against Cuba's Benny "Kid" Paret at Las Vegas, in May.

The word came shortly after Jordan appeared in court and paid a $157.50 fine for being intoxicated in a car.

Maceroni said he has not officially been notified of the proposed fight.

On the light-heavyweight crown, worn by Moore since Dec. 17, 1952, Maceroni said details on a successor will be worked out at a meeting in New York March 15. Harold Johnson is the No. 1 challenger.

LONG REIGN

Moore, whose age is variously listed as 46 and 43 in record books, is still considered the champion in California and New York, which do not belong to the NBA. Massachusetts, another non-NBA state, is to take action on Moore's status Friday.

Archie won the crown in 1952 by outpointing Joey Maxim in a 15-rounder. Since then he has successfully defended twice against both Maxim and Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., and once each against Bobo Olson, Yolande Pompey, Tony Anthony and Johnson.

TITLE FOR MIMI

BOMBAY (AP) — Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., won the Western India women's singles lawn tennis championship Sunday, beating Australia's Margaret Hellyer 6-8, 6-3, 6-2.

Bentley Boys Best But Blues Had Fun

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver hockey fans took a look at the stars of two decades ago and liked what they saw Monday night as the Whites, led by six Bentley brothers, defeated the Blues, 10-6.

The game was in aid of the B.C. Benevolent Hockey Association and 3,752 fans turned out to laugh and cheer at the former greats in the annual Oldtimers' Game.

THREE FOR MAX

The famed Bentleys, who hit the hockey heights chiefly with the Chicago Black Hawks, stole the show. They formed a complete lineup and contributed six goals to the Whites' total. Max Bentley scored three, Doug got two and Reg got the other. Jack Bentley took his turn in goal when his brothers were on the ice. The other White goalie was Doug Stevenson.

The Whites had the classiest lineup but the Blues supplied the laughs. They could hardly miss with Walter "Babe" Pratt and Muzz Patrick on defence.

These two put on a phony fight in the last minute of play after the Bentleys had scored their final goal. They waltzed off the ice as the brass band played "The Sidewalks of New York." Both are former New York Ranger greats.

YOUNGER STARS

Other stars in the Blues lineup were silver-haired Neil Colville, Brian Hextall and Clint Smith. Some of the younger stars with the Blues were Tony Leswick, ex-Detroit Red Wing, Larry Reardon, and Jack Thompson.

The score was tied 3-3 at the end of the first period and it was 6-3 for the Whites at the end of the second. Other goal scorers for the Whites were Bob Ballance, Len Mutcheson and Bobby Koch.

Blue scorers were Thompson, Hextall, Leswick, Reardon, Bill Wilson and Glen Vickers.

WHEN PRIVATE FIRMS PULLED OUT

B.C. Hydro Cut Rates In 12 Areas—Strachan

B.C. Power Commission cut the power rates in 12 of 13 centres after taking the distribution systems over from private firms, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said in the legislature Monday.

He was answering a speech last week by Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan who said he saw nothing in the Power Act to indicate it is the duty of the power commission to take over the B.C. Electric.

Mr. Strachan said when the BCPC took over in the Alberni area, rates were cut by a third, at Burns Lake by one-half.

Similar reductions were made at Clinton, Campbell River and Dawson Creek. At Golden they came down from 14.2 to 3.3 cents per kilowatt hour, Hope from 10.3 to 3.7, Lake Cowichan 8.7 to 3 cents, Nakusp 10.6 to 3.83, Nanaimo 5.2 to 2.2, Westbank 8.8 to 3.22, Quesnel and Sechelt 11.2 to 3.69, Terrace 16.7 to 2.64.

"To be fair, at Lillooet they went up from 7.9 to 8.4 cents, but it's the only place where the rates went up."

Mr. Strachan has consistently argued public power must be cheaper than private power because there are no corporation taxes or share profits to be met. And he added Monday, "B.C. Hydro makes no political levy on consumers as B.C. Electric does."

He went on to criticize Mr. Kiernan for repeating the remark that if the Power Commission took over the Peace River development the financial burden would be too great.

"It's odd to hear these people tell us B.C. couldn't finance this or that. The minister read a list of 16 companies that will finance the Peace, but the province couldn't do it. If 16 companies can raise the money on the strength of the natural resources of B.C., then the 1,600,000 people of B.C. can raise the money on these same resources," said Mr. Strachan.

MAYOR GIVES AWARD TO 'WOMAN OF YEAR'

NANAIMO—Mrs. Lena Martin Monday was named Nanaimo's "woman of the year" in recognition of her work on senior citizens' housing and on civil defence.

She received an inscribed award from Mayor Pete Maffeo.

GREGORY HISSED BY MAINLANDERS

UBC Arts Faculty to Victoria?

A light-hearted suggestion that the entire arts faculty at the University of British Columbia be moved to Victoria College was made in the legislature Monday by George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria).

Mr. Gregory said UBC is getting "far too big" and would be better located in Victoria.

CCF members from Vancouver replied with subdued hisses but Mr. Gregory wasn't dismayed. He insisted that many of the world's leading universities are located in small picturesque towns such as Oxford, Cambridge, Yale, Harvard and Princeton.

"A big sprawling industrial city like Vancouver is no place for a university," he said. "UBC should never have been started there in the first place."

ISLAND NEWS BRIEFS

PORT ALBERNI—This district and West Coast points on the Island contributed $3,850 in the recent Christmas seal campaign to fight tuberculosis.

The amount was $400 less than the previous year.

Kettle Did It

PENDER ISLAND—An electric kettle started a fire which gutted the interior of the two-room cottage home of Miss Frances Saville here Monday.

A power failure caused by Sunday's storm had knocked out lines and the kettle was plugged in when the power failure struck.

Power was restored when Miss Saville was out and the kettle boiled dry, setting fire to the kitchen.

Volunteer firemen saved most of the furniture, including a grand piano.

'Alderman Fined

DUNCAN—Ald. John Kerorone pleaded guilty in police court here Monday to careless driving and paid a $20 fine.

Police said he struck two telephone poles with his car on Government Street last Thursday.

Born in England, he came to Canada in 1873 with his parents. His father, J. T. Porter, was the first Cobble Hill postmaster.

James Porter succeeded his father as postmaster in 1889 and retired in 1948.

Survivors include the widow, Ann, and two brothers, Arthur and Francis, both of Victoria.

Three-Car Smash

DUNCAN — Three vehicles sustained a total of $700 damage as the result of an accident caused by icy road conditions early Monday on the Trans-Canada Highway four miles north of Duncan.

A car driven by Hans Wolf, Duncan, went into a skid, hit the rear of a vehicle driven by Ernest E. Oakes, Duncan, continued travelling and sideswiped a parked car on the west side of the highway owned by Joseph Humphries, Shawnigan Lake.

Wolf's car skidded 107 feet before hitting the Oakes' vehicle.

The drivers were uninjured.

'No Repeats'

DUNCAN — Lucille Le Fleur, Vancouver, was fined $28 and paid $6.50 costs in Duncan police court Monday, after pleading guilty to using obscene language in a Duncan Hotel on Valentine's Day.

The RCMP corporal acting for the crown said the woman was using language he "would not repeat in court" and that she held a disconnected telephone receiver in one hand which she used to knock on the clerk's desk.

Miss Le Fleur told Magistrate C. L. Anderson the landlady of the hotel was taking care of her money. She would not give it back, Miss Le Fleur said, and the dispute followed.

MOTORISTS SHOULD PAY FOR 'FANCY' LICENCES

B.C. motorists who want fancy licence plates, with special numbers set aside for them, should be asked to pay extra for them, George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria), suggested in the legislature Monday.

"I suggest this would be a good way of increasing our revenues," he said.

BACK TO COUNCIL

Another Heave-Ho On Bust Decision

The statue of Queen Elizabeth still is being bounced around like a hot potato.

City council, fed up with the months-long wrangling over the concrete bust, tossed the problem of finding a permanent location in parks committee's lap with orders to keep it until solved.

Monday the committee tossed the problem back at council—unsolved.

Ald. M. H. Mooney maintained that the bust should be installed in Beacon Hill Park as originally planned. Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson refused to agree.

Both ignored an offer by Greater Victoria Art Gallery to accept the art work.

Ald. Elmer McEwen, third member of the committee was absent so the deadlock resulted in the decision to refer the whole problem back to council without any recommendation.

TRAFFIC FINES

New Crossing Requested For Duncan

DUNCAN—The Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce is urging a third railway crossing here.

They pressed their demands at a recent meeting with city council.

Duncan is divided by the E & N Railway, which presents a traffic problem at the Trunk Road crossing.

Pedestrians are in the habit of walking across the tracks to get to the city centre.

It is proposed to build the third crossing at the west end of Coronation Avenue, if permission is granted by the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Trustees Cool On School Bid

The Greater Victoria School Board Monday decided to move slowly on a request for establishment of a separate vocational school.

The Victoria Labor Council asked for construction of a separate school for instruction in all branches of vocational subjects, including apprenticeship training and technical courses for night students.

But the board delayed decision until publication of the Chant Royal Commission on Education report because it might include a recommendation for expansion of vocational institutes.

Study all media circulation claims closely; can they guarantee their circulations with paid receipts?

Daily newspapers can. Their circulation figures are fact not fancy, and are the total of paid deliveries. You know what you get when you advertise in daily newspapers. You know, on the basis of paid receipts, exactly how many homes your message is reaching.

You know that your message has a better chance of being seen and understood than in any other media or combination of media. It means that well beforehand, without any doubt, you know how many people your message will reach.

When it comes to advertising, trust in guaranteed circulations. They're your best assurance that the money you spend does the kind of selling job you want.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK—You may be reading the France Nuyen story for days but the true France Nuyen story's sad. Plump now, and "confused," she found nobody wants her.

Her illness made her troublesome. On Broadway she quit speaking to Producer-Director Josh Logan.

"He made me what I am," she'd say. (He made her a star.)

She snubbed those she knew best. Producer David Merrick let her out of "The World of Suzie Wong" to take a Hollywood contract—now he isn't eager to collect eight months she owes him.

"You couldn't be sure of her," he's said. An E. 64th St. apartment she had testifies to her weight battle. In it were found many diets and reducing pills. She explained her overeating to me a couple of years ago. She was a waif in Europe during the Second World War—close to starving. She thought she mightn't eat again. Stardom came, and seeing all the food available, "I just can't control myself," she said.

"I stop — then I start all over again." True or not, that has been her explanation to herself.

And there I had to run out of people to ask.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Linda McCandless, age 11, of Louisville, Ky., for her question:

How long have trees been on the earth?

Trees are the giants of the plant world—but not all big plants can be called trees. We talk of banana trees and rose trees, but in a strict sense these are not trees at all. All the trees do not belong to the same plant family. We do not call a little strawberry plant or a fragile pea vine a tree. But the apple tree is a big cousin of the strawberry and the hardy locust tree is a big cousin of the pea vine.

Aside from being large, a tree must be a perennial plant—that is, it lives through many years. It must also have a strong woody stem at least 10 feet tall. As a rule, the branches begin well above the ground, but there is no clear distinction between trees and certain shrubs — and shrubs usually have low leafy branches.

A tree, then, is a large and complex plant. The very first plants were, of course, very simple. They may have been simple single-celled algae, like the green scum which clouds a fish bowl. All life began in the ancient seas and there is no doubt that plants came to live on the dry land before the animals. This great event took place perhaps 350 million years ago.

The early land plants were lichens, fungi, mosses and liverworts. These little plants hugged the ground for they had not yet developed stems. Later came ferns and horsetails. These plants had stems and could lift their foliage up into the sunny air. They thrived and progressed. Some 250 million years ago there were forests of these lanky plants. Our coal was formed from the remains of these ancient forests. Maybe we can call those giant ferns and tall horsetails trees, for they had tall woody stems. But they in no way resemble our leafy oaks and elms.

Conifers First True Types

The first true trees were the cycads and the conifers. The cycads were palmlike trees whose descendants still survive in the tropics. The conifers are cone-bearing trees—the pines, firs and the giant redwoods. These trees appeared on the earth about 200 million years ago. The cycads and the conifers were the most advanced trees when the dinosaurs walked the earth some 150 million years ago.

Flowering trees, such as the waxy magnolia, and deciduous trees, which are those that shed their leaves, did not develop until the Age om Mammals which began about 60 million years ago.

Ten million years later, magnolias bloomed in Alaska; there were ginkgos in the northwest and giant redwoods thrived all over America. There have also been woods and forests of oaks and elms, beeches and birches for at least 50 million years. Our modern world of plants was fairly well established at that time. Since then, the only notable changes have been made as man improved the wild plants.

The Luxton Cub Pack and Scout Troop held its annual father and son banquet on February 8, at the South Vancouver Island Rangers' Hall on Luxton Road.

Guests were welcomed by Mr. W. Harper, group committee chairman, who spoke of the need for a new pack, troop and group committee in this area. Due to increased popularity of scouting and increasing population in the district, we expect serious overcrowding of our present groups.

Guest of honor was Mr. J. E. Martin, district commissioner, western district, who spoke briefly. Other special guests were: Rev. G. F. Dangerfield, Rev. O. A. Hatfield, and Mr. Donald Richardson representing district churches; Mr. A. E. Mouvant, chief ranger of South Vancouver Island Rangers, who kindly donated their hall for the banquet; and Bruce Charters.

During the evening Commissioner Martin presented a long-service medal and bar to scouter R. Muir for 16 years' continuous work with scouting. Scoutmaster G. Johnson presented replica Cavey cups to the winners of the cup for the past three years: Bruce Charters, Alex Muir and Bob Goffin.

Scouts presented woggles made by the troop to scouters A. Martin, G. Johnson, R. Muir and S. Law in appreciation of their untiring effort and interest.

Cubmaster W. Hobbis and Scoutmaster G. Johnson thanked the assembled guests and the group committee for their co-operation and assistance during the year.

Guests were entertained by Mr. Frank Merryfield, magician and ventriloquist of long experience, and Mr. Jake Rush with his guitar and songs.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

'DOESN'T HURT' FOR JUDGES TO KNOW LAW

Honesty Just Isn't Enough

Full-time judges with some legal training should be installed in British Columbia's police courts, George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria), said in the legislature Monday.

"We have too many justices of the peace and magistrates who have little or no legal training in our lower courts. Many of them are honest in their intentions, but it takes more than honesty and good intentions to make a good judge.

"A judge needs to know something of human nature and it doesn't hurt to know a little law besides."

A practising lawyer himself, Mr. Gregory spoke of "shocking behavior" by a police magistrate in the Cariboo.

"We need the most competent men in our lower courts and we shall need them in our family courts when they are set up."

He deplored the practice of appointing working lawyers as part-time juvenile judges, and suggested all fines paid to the province should be used to remunerate competent full-time judges.

PAY PHRASING 'DESIGNED TO MISLEAD'

Premier Bennett's budget address was "designed to mislead" with respect to the increase of $2,200,000 in spending for the civil service, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said Monday.

Speaking in the legislature, he pointed out a supplementary vote of $1,900,000 was approved after the last budget was passed. At least $1,500,000 of this amount was expended before Dec. 31, 1959.

"The increase," for the civil service this year, "appears to be between $300,000 and $700,000," he said.

Getting Brushoff Strachan Charges

Opposition leader Robert Strachan Monday accused Premier Bennett and his cabinet of discourtesy.

"When I have wanted to see ministers," said the CCF leader, "they have all been away politicking."

But the Premier — still convalescing—wasn't in the Legislature to hear Mr. Strachan's charges.

Mr. Strachan said the Premier will only give him information when it is already public. By tradition, previous governments have always presented the Opposition Leader with a copy of the budget address in advance, he said.

But last Friday Mr. Strachan couldn't get a copy of the budget speech even after it was in the newspapers. Mr. Strachan said when Harold Winch was Opposition Leader, the Premier called him into his office two or three times a week.

He recalled that the Shrum report was released at Courtenay last August and he was unable to get a copy for six weeks.

Mr. Strachan accused the government of "deceit" in the answers he received to some questions last session, but was made to withdraw the word.

If Politician Would Be 'Clean' He Must Know Source of Funds

Any responsible politician must know where his campaign funds come from before he can claim he is clean, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said in the legislature Monday.

Opening the budget debate, he rapped Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi for saying in the House recently he didn't know the source of Social Credit funds.

Mr. Strachan at that time had inferred the government was helping the Wenner-Gren-B.C. Electric Peace River development in return for campaign support, or "political payola."

Mr. Strachan said it was time political parties were required to make their campaign funds public. He quoted a Times news story of the last Social Credit convention when Cyril Shelford (SC-Omineca) said no one but Premier Bennett knows anything about the central campaign fund.

"It's time he (Mr. Shelford) found out, time political contributions were public property, so the public can know which public corporations make a political levy on their customers," said Mr. Strachan.

Then Don Robinson (SC-Lillooet) and Attorney-General Robert Bonner suggested the proposed contributions by trade union members to the CCF involve coercion.

Mr. Strachan replied that they are voluntary.

'OVERDOSE OF NUCLEAR RAIN' SAYS VICTORIAN

What's Happened to the Birds?

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Biologists and ornithologists are puzzled by the lack of perching birds wintering in and around Victoria this year.

The juncos, finches, varied thrushes and the various varieties of sparrows, which normally move into the city for feeding in winter aren't being seen in city gardens.

Bird experts are stumped. They can't explain why.

OTHERS TOO

Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, said the phenomena is not confined to Victoria. Other localities on the Island and communities as far east as the Shuswap have reported a scarcity of wintering birds.

One resident, A. L. Stevenson, 2765 Belmont Avenue, who has kept a feeding station for birds for years, says many birds may have become the victims of an overdose of nuclear rain" (Strontium-90), but biologists have ruled this out.

JUST DON'T KNOW

Where have they gone? Has a disease taken a heavy toll of birds?

"We don't know," said Dr. Carl. "It may be due to a number of causes."

Some authorities say the mild weather may be responsible. The birds are staying on the outskirts of urban areas because of an abundance of feed, such as insects which haven't been killed off by heavy frost.

But Dr. Carl isn't satisfied with this explanation.

"We have had other mild winters and the birds have migrated to the city," he said.

One group of bird experts think that insecticides are beginning to take a heavy toll of birds.

Others believe the hatching season was poor last spring. But there is no evidence to support this.

Charlie Guiguet, museum biologist, said the scarcity does not apply to waterfowl.

"But song birds seem to be much scarcer in urban areas throughout B.C.," he said.

Same Fair Fees

DUNCAN—Exhibition directors Monday voted down a proposal to increase entrance fees at the fair grounds.

The price will stay at 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children. Each would have been raised 25 cents.

Directors approved a budget totalling $11,200 with an expected operating profit of $755.

PARK LAKE 'PLUG' PULLED

Partial drainage of Beacon Hill Park's Goodacre Lake today is limiting "cruising range of waterfowl. Water was released to expose rock and mortar shoring for $800 repair job. Result is rocky "beach" on north side of lake and mud flats on south. Work started four days ago and will be finished "soon as possible." Park officials point out there is no real shortage of water for birds, merely less than they have been accustomed to. Water is drained from lake by gate valve. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Victoria can expect more rain tonight and on-again-off-again showers Wednesday.

With tonight's dampness will come winds of about 20 mph from the southeast, changing Wednesday to southwest and increasing to around 25 mph.

HAD GUN, TRAVELLED

A James Bay teen-ager is accused by police of having gun, and travelling.

The 17-year-old is charged with taking an ancient rifle from the walls of a Legislative Buildings corridor, about 4.30 p.m. Monday.

The rifle was part of a display adjoining the provincial library, and it was taken from the Buildings.

Alderman Heads New Scout Body

The first of eight Boy Scout Association district councils was formed at Scout regional headquarters Monday.

It will be known as Fort Victoria.

Formation of district councils is part of a reorganization program designed to permit greater boy and adult participation in the Scout movement.

Instead of having one district council to serve the Greater Victoria area, there will be a total of eight. They will all be organized within the next few months.

The newly-formed council elected Ald. M. H. Mooney as its president.

Other officers elected were: F. Crocker, vice-president; C. J. Williams, secretary; E. V. Darling, treasurer, and J. C. Hawkes, badge secretary. Executives, J. P. Fawcett, B. N. Inglis, F. M. Shandley and G. Whiteaker.

G. W. Oliphant was appointed district commissioner and Winnie Lees, district cub master.

Plan Studied For Wider City Entrance

The B.C. department of highways plans to widen the Trans-Canada Highway approach to Victoria.

This was revealed in a Saanich town planner's report recommending against permitting a company to use a site on Harriet near the Trans-Canada Highway for the sale of trailer homes.

Saanich council will view the site.

Planner Tony Parr said the government is preparing plans for widening the highway.

TOO CLOSE

He pointed out that when the highway is wider the trailer enterprise would be alongside the road.

"This type of development is definitely not wanted at the entrance to the city," he said. "The unattractiveness of this type of development may be seen in the unorganized territories along the highway, west of Saanich."

Service College Sports Meet This Weekend

Winning college, on a total point basis, is awarded the Claxton Cup. Since the tournament's inception in 1949, RMC has won six times; Royal Roads twice, and CMR, which joined for the first time in 1954, three times.

EDGELOW BLOWS UP AT MOONEY

Thetis Fight Erupts Into Shouting Match

Committees Call For Full Report

The battle over the proposed Thetis Lake easement erupted into a full-throated shouting match in City Hall for a few minutes this morning.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, red faced with anger, accused Acting Mayor Millard Mooney of making a false statement and being an "irresponsible elected official" during a joint meeting of city waterworks and parks committees.

Ald. Edgelow also criticized provincial botanist Adam Szczawinski, conservationists and the press for "going too far in trying to get the public sympathy" against the B.C. Electric's request for an easement through the city property.

REPORT ASKED

After the turmoil settled, the committees called for a comprehensive report on the Thetis Lake property and its best use. The report originally was requested by city council in April, 1955, but never was made.

City engineer J. C. Garnett estimated that it could take two or three months to prepare the report "if this gets the careful consideration it deserves."

Earlier, B.C. Electric official Guy Barclay told the committees it would not make any difference financially in the long run whether the power line easement ran inside or outside the city's property.

EASY WAY OUT?

But the route could be settled "quicker" if the company did not have to deal with private land holders along the east boundary of the watershed, he said.

He added that the company felt running the line through the northeast corner of the city property would enable the greatest development of surrounding private property when the area grows.

Ald. Mooney, chairman of parks committee, asked why the city should consider allowing an easement through the centre of the park at all if it did not really make any financial difference to BCE.

HOLD IT!

Ald. Edgelow jumped to his feet and shouted:

"You said through the centre of the park. That's the kind of false statement that is going on. That's an irresponsible statement.

"You're being an irresponsible elected official when you make that statement."

Ald. Mooney blasted back that "it certainly is not skirting the park."

A general hubub followed as other aldermen tried to get order, but before quiet returned Ald. Mooney was heard to shout:

"I'd like Mr. Edgelow to tell me if he has any connections in this. Why has he taken such a positive stand to let B.C. Electric go through the park?"

DEVELOPMENT MONEY

The meeting calmed down as Ald. Edgelow gave his reply.

"I have always felt that it was in the best interests of the taxpayers of Victoria to get money for development of the park area."

He said the easement was proposed for a remote corner of the park and the city should not give way to pressure "from a lot of people who are not Victoria taxpayers."

Earlier, he had accused the provincial botanist "of scraping the barrel to get public sympathy" when Ald. J. L. W. McLean said the University of Victoria was interested in the park as an "outdoor laboratory" for ecological studies.

"He misled the public" by claiming that the easement would run through virgin timber and lower the water table, said Ald. Edgelow.

"Now we've got the university evidently going to be used in this. How in their wildest dreams can anyone say this is going to affect the university when most universities have their own gardens?"

Ald. Edgelow said conservationists had blown the issue out of all proportions.

"Furthermore, I think the press has been unfair in this thing because they are not presenting both sides."

(Later he said he was not accusing the Times of unfairness in reporting the issue.)

NOT A "PARK"

Ald. Edgelow and waterworks chairman Ald. A. I. Curtis earlier clashed swords with Ald. Elmer McEwen and Ald. Mooney because they referred to Thetis Lake "Park."

Ald. Edgelow and Ald. Curtis both said that the property was watershed area, never was and is not park and would become taxable if everyone continued to designate it as a park.

Ald. McEwen said that the terms park and watershed were being used interchangeably "as it suits people at the moment. We all know it is considered as a park by the people."

REPORT FROM FOUR

The report requested by the committees will be made by Mr. Garnett, city manager C. C. Wyatt, parks administrator H. W. Warren and capital region planning director Brahm Weisman.

The question of whether or not the city should offer the property to the provincial government for development was shelved pending receipt of the report but several aldermen indicated they were opposed to the city giving it up.

LEGISLATURE SPEAKERS

Speakers in the legislature budget debate Wednesday are Health Minister Martin, Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East), Frank Richter (SC, Similkameen), and John Tisdale (SC, Saanich). The schedule is subject to last-minute changes.

IMPAIRED DRIVER:

'First Time, Last Time, That's It'

A motorist charged in city police court today with impaired driving is determined it won't happen again.

Terho Tiainen, 1171 McKenzie, pleaded guilty and when asked by Magistrate William Ostler if he had anything to say, replied:

"Yes. It's the first time and last time I'm here. That's it."

A commendable attitude, said the magistrate, fining the accused $250 and remanding him for a probation report on the matter of driver's licence suspension.

John Robert Soberg, 1051 Holmes, pleaded guilty to the same charge and was fined $250 with licence suspension.

Court was told two RCMP constables clocked Soberg at 50 miles an hour on Gorge Road, stopped him once near Rock Bay then had to jump back in their police car to follow him part of another block when the accused tried to drive off.

Soberg said he was in his seventh day of trying to quit smoking and before having some drinks he had taken a quantity of drugs, which he felt may have contributed to his condition.

Lawyer Raps Easy Buying Of Weapons

The ease with which anyone may buy small arms and ammunition was termed "shocking" by a Victoria lawyer speaking to sentence in an assault case in city police court today.

James Proudfoot spoke on behalf of Louis Schubert, of Victoria, who is charged with the common assault of his wife, Juliana, by striking her in the face and pointing a gun at her in a quarrel Jan. 23.

"It is a shocking factor that any man—and that is the case here—can go into a sporting goods store and buy a revolver and shells," Mr. Proudfoot said.

He pointed out that the gun at this time was not loaded, according to his information.

"The situation is a dangerous one," prosecutor T. P. O'Grady said, asking the court to treat the case as an assault by striking a blow and by pointing a dangerous weapon —"whether loaded or unloaded."

Magistrate William Ostler suggested a psychiatric report on the accused, in which Mr. Proudfoot concurred, and the case was remanded to Monday for sentence.

SEA TRIALS FOR FERRY

First sea trial for the new provincial government ferry MV Sidney took place today in Juan de Fuca Strait.

The ferry will be used on the Sidney-Tsawassen service, scheduled to open this summer.

Sidney's builders, Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd., hope to deliver the ship to the government March 7, one year from the keel-laying ceremony.

Sea trials will continue at intervals for the balance of February.

Two Farmers Figure In Tory Race

A representative of Saanich farmers, Victor E. Virgin, is expected to accept a bid for Progressive Conservative candidacy for the next provincial election.

Mrs. Nora Lindsay, publicity chairman for the association, said today the nominating meeting of Saanich PC Association will be held March 17 at Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall at 8 p.m.

CONTEST

There were indications of a contest for the nomination because it was earlier announced that Saanich Farmers' Market operator William Mattick also would seek candidacy.

He said this morning he is still considering the question.

Mr. Virgin is a director of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, a director of Saanich Fruit Growers' Association and Vancouver Island representative for the B.C. Farmers' Institute.

A school teacher for 25 years in Saskatchewan, he has lived in Saanich since 1946 and has written a book on the history of the area.

'We Want Work' Says Strachan

The legislative committee on agriculture "has no useful purpose at all anymore," Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said this morning following a short meeting.

Mr. Strachan, who is a member of the committee, said there is nothing for the committee to do. "We have had two meetings and nothing has been referred to us."

Mr. Strachan said in past years the advisory board of the Farmers' Institutes of B.C. has met with the agriculture minister and submitted recommendations which were passed along to the committee.

"There were usually seven or eight proposals and we would bring in recommendations to the House," said Mr. Strachan.

ASKED FOR WORK

When it became apparent this year that Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy would not send along the institute recommendations, Mr. Strachan said he proposed a motion that the committee ask the House to refer matters to the committee.

This morning's meeting was held to receive a report from Speaker Hugh Shantz to the effect that this was not in keeping with the terms of reference governing the committee. Although the committee is set up to consider any matters referred to it, it may not ask for referrals.

NOT TIED

Chairman Frank Richter (SC-Similkameen) said later, "I do not feel the committee's hands are tied. We have the same power we have always had. It is the perogative of the minister to refer matters. It is still possible we will consider the Farmers' Institute proposals, if the minister sees fit."

He said the minister had met with the farmers.

PICTURE CHANGED

Mr. Richter did not think the Farmers' Institute carried the same weight with B.C. farmers as in the past. He felt they were seeking to have their wants answered through submissions to the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, which recently submitted a brief to cabinet.

Last year in the House, there was some controversy when the committee adopted a resolution of the institute which favored public power development of northern hydro resources, contrary to expressed opinion of the government.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Have M.L.A.s' indemnities recently been increased by order-in-council, and also do ministers holding a dual position receive dual recompense? Of course they will have dual expense accounts, won't they? —E.H.

A. There has been no recent increase in sessional indemnities. Ministers holding two or more cabinet ranks receive only one salary, $12,500 a year. They receive expenses in connection with their work, regardless of which department they may head. Exception to the salary bracket is Premier Bennett who gets $15,000 yearly. He is also finance minister.

Q. What year was the first Indianapolis Speedway event? —B.S.

A. In 1911.

'I'VE BEEN RIGHT BEFORE' SAYS OLDTIMER

A Boy ... 7.30 A.M. ... Wednesday

The Queen's baby will be born at 7.30 a.m. Wednesday.

And it will be a boy.

This is not an announcement from Buckingham Palace, but a prediction from Thomas James Dunstan, 851 Viewfield Road, a bearded 86-year-old Victorian who is widely known for his prophecies.

"I frequently get hunches," he said, "and they usually turn out to be right."

Mr. Dunstan said he got the hunch three months ago that the royal baby would be born on Wednesday. But he refrained from making it public at that time because he felt births were personal family affairs.

He explained that making predictions was second nature to him.

"They come and they go," he said. "It's easy. All you have to do is to study yourself."

He recalled that he made $16,000 in wagers in 1918 by predicting that two famous swindlers would be convicted in a trial at Vancouver.

He also claimed he foretold in March, 1918, that the First World War would end on Nov. 11 of that year.

"I have also predicted the dates of several famous earthquakes," he added.

Born in Cornwall, Eng., where gremlins and pixies still haunt the moors, Mr. Dunstan served on sailing ships in the latter years of the 19th century.

He later came to Canada and laid the foundation of a sizeable fortune by hawking pins, needles, combs, linen and "notions" from door to door.

He is the former owner of the Dunstan Block, the Scott Block and the land on which the Daily Times now stands.

At various times he owned 10 stores in Victoria, chiefly antique stores.

"I've led a full life," said the former mariner. "I've made 16 crossings across the Pacific to Australia and New Zealand."

Mr. Dunstan said some day he would get down to writing a book about his adventures in Canada and abroad. It was just a matter of getting down to it, he said.

"As for that hunch—you wait until tomorrow morning," he promised . . .

Exciting Colors Found In New Shoes Selling Now

By PENNY SAVER

Teen-age daughters—and their mothers too—are going to fall in love with line of shoes I've seen this week. Colors are absolutely beautiful. Feeling of spring is captured in golden yellow, coral, pine green, pearl grey, bamboo beige and other exciting shades. One model has squash heel, so popular with the high school and college set, and flattering pointed toe. New material, called pig-tex, which looks exactly like suede, is combined with leather and bow trim on dainty toe. Soles are of composition called chrome that lasts much longer than leather and is far more flexible. Shoes sell for $7.95 a pair.

Walking shoe model has crepe soles and low heels and comes in two-tone color combinations of beige and brown, green shades and grey and black. These, too, are in pig-tex with leather trims. Price again is $7.95 a pair.

Cleaning stick, looking very much like an eraser, is sold by the same store. Stick, which sells at 50 cents, rubs off dust and grime from these shoes in no time at all.

If you're planning a children's birthday party, crepe paper surprise balls that sell for 10 cents would add fun for your little guests.

Hand-rolled balls have five shades of paper. As children start unrolling each fresh shade will reveal a surprise that could be either a balloon, toy watch, whistle or some other intriguing trinket.

Another boon for parties will be the package that has 20 balloons with handy pump for blowing them up. No need to dread that task any longer! Balloons are all shapes and sizes and set is available at 59 cents.

Need a neat crisp blouse for your spring suit or favorite skirt? I suggest you take a look at the new blouses that are made in Italy. In white, they are trimmed with hand embroidery in lovely pastel shades.

Blouses have short sleeves and dainty Peter Pan collars. Price of these charmers is $4.95.

WHY GROW OLD?

Throw Out 'Crutch,' Look Forbidden Foods in Eye

Josephine

Thousands of women who joined my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon now are well on their way to success. Some of them already have written me about their great improvement. Several have said that they eat their evening meals before their families do. Then they sit at the table with their families to visit with them as they eat but do not eat anything themselves at that time.

If you are a bit weak in the will-power department and are having trouble, I suppose this is a good crutch to use for a while. With your hunger pangs somewhat assuaged, it probably is easier to look at the items others eat which you cannot.

However, this attitude has its pitfalls because unless you have made up your mind absolutely that you are going to stick to your calorie counting, you are sure to fail. In regular social life you constantly will have tempting items offered you, often with the added pressure of being urged to partake by a hostess, and what will you do then?

Every dieter finds tricks which help her and if this one aids you then I suppose it is all right. I do suggest, though, that you throw this crutch away soon and learn to look those forbidden foods straight in the eye, with a shrug of your shoulders and a glance in the mirror!

This is about the time when many reducers become discouraged. Perhaps you sailed along nicely for a while, losing steadily and satisfactorily, but now seem to be at a standstill. You continue counting your calories but do not lose any pounds.

Do not be dismayed! This is a normal part of reducing on a long pull. Stick to the diet and you soon will find that the scales give you happy news again.

There is still time to get in shape for those spring clothes! If you would like to lose 20 pounds in 8 weeks or improve your appearance as much as possible in that time, you still can join my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon. If you would like to do so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this paper.

HAVE YOU A PROBLEM?

Many Household Queries Solved By Helpful Readers

Housewives! The purpose of this column is for you to use your practical knowledge to help your neighbors.

Since the column was begun a month ago, numerous household problems have been presented and answered by our readers.

If you have answers to questions already printed you may write them in or telephone your suggestions to the women's department of this newspaper—EV 2-3131—between 1 and 2 o'clock any afternoon. We will print your solutions as they come in.

More Household Problems

Mrs. D. A. G. writes in that she and her husband are thinking of redecorating their living room and an argument has arisen. She'd like readers to give their opinions on how big a room should be before using a wall in contrasting color. Anyone have ideas? Then do help Mrs. D. A. G.

Has anyone a method to remove car oil stains from wool fabric asks Mrs. F. N.

"Won't You Come Over To My House?" is old song that Mr. O. Pedersen, 2177 Queens Avenue, Sidney, would like to find. He would like the music as well as the words.

Mrs. L. M. S. wants to have floor-length draw drapes in her living room, but there are old fashioned steam radiators under some of the windows. She is asking readers what she should do.

Answers to Questions

Miss V. B. has another solution for Mrs. Witherspoon who wants to know how to clean dirty patches on wall paper behind radiators. She suggests using "Absorene"—a non-crumbling wallpaper cleaner that can be bought at any paint store. "You'll have to do the whole wall—otherwise it will leave a mark. I use it to clean my walls. I do a whole room every other year and it takes the dirt right off." Miss V. B. suggests the reader phone her at EV 3-0766 for any further information.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Are You for Real?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I don't believe in beating around the bush so I wrote to a girl (she is a senior at college) and asked her, in a very business-like manner, to marry me. I stated what I had to offer her in the way of security. I also put in writing what I expected her, as my wife, to do. For instance:

(1) Make my breakfast every morning; (2) no hired help until we have a baby; (3) I expect no less than four children; (4) I will handle all the money. It has been almost three weeks since I sent that letter (registered). Should I write to her again or give her more time?

BUSINESSLIKE

DEAR BUSINESSLIKE: Are you kidding? Perhaps the girl is so overwhelmed with the prospects of marrying you that she is paralyzed by indecision. If you assume that she is not interested, you've got a pretty good bet.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What kind of a husband tells his wife that she should line herself up dates with other men when he is out of town?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: One with a guilty conscience.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: If people invite you to their home for dinner and you decline their invitation, do you owe them an invitation?

I say no and my husband says yes.

IN COGNITO

DEAR IN: It all depends upon your reason for declining. If you do not care to socialize with the people, continue to decline their invitations until they quit inviting you. If you are unable to accept, but would like to be invited again, return the invitation as soon as possible.

Confidential to Generous Parents: Someone once said, "Give a child everything he asks for and pretty soon he will be asking the governor for a pardon." Don't go overboard.

Dolores Maureen Smith Bride Of Roderick Rithet Skillings

The First United Church was the setting for an attractive wedding Saturday evening when Dolores Maureen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Smith, of Ferndale Road, became the bride of Roderick Rithet Skillings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Skillings, of Cedar Hill Road. Rev. A. I. Higgins officiated at the candlelight ceremony. Mrs. Roberto Wood, organist, played wedding music.

The bride chose a gown of white taffeta. The very full floor-length dress featured a princess waistline. A rounded neckline was enhanced by delicate lace, and bows adorned the skirt. Sleeves were lilypoint. Her illusion veil cascaded to fingertip length from a coronet of pearls and rhinestones. A pearl necklace and earrings were worn as jewelry. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. R. B. Skillings, matron of honor; bridesmaid Miss Penny Hamilton, and bridesmatron, Mrs. P. Kilen, wore similar gowns of turquoise silk organza over taffeta. Accessories were en tone. They carried yellow carnations in the shape of fans.

Neil Paget was the best man and ushers were Larry Smith, Bob Skillings, John Skillings and Douglas Skillings.

A wedgewood blue sheath-style dress of silk was worn by the mother of the bride at a reception in the Golden Slipper Supper Club. Mrs. Skillings received the guests wearing an olive green silk sheath dress, whimsey hat and blonde toned accessories.

The newlyweds cut a three-tier cake. Stanley Orrick, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast.

For her going-away ensemble, the new Mrs. Skillings donned a rose-toned Blin and Blin suit. Her hat was en tone. She topped the outfit with a wedgewood blue coat and grey accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The young couple plan to make their home at 532 Dallas Road.

Grandmother Sends Veil For Bride at Chemainus

An imported lace veil in finger-tip length, sent to the bride by her grandmother in England, was worn by Miss Sylvia Catherine Thomson for her marriage to Karl Wayne Bonde in Chemainus United Church recently. It was held by a tiara of tiny gardenias and seed pearls. Her waltz-length gown was of white nylon and acetate lace over taffeta. Bodice was fitted and enhanced by a "little boy" collar studded with sequins and pearls. Skirt was bouffant, highlighted by wide flounces. As jewelry, she wore her mother's black diamond and she carried a bouquet of white gardenias and red rosebuds with cascade streamers tied in lover's knots.

Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Thomson of North Chemainus and her groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bonde.

Rev. T. McMillan officiated. Mrs. R. Murrell was organist, and William Jackson sang "Because" during signing of register.

Maid of honor, Miss Susan Bader, James Island, wore a blue nylon net dress in ballerina length. Strapless bodice was topped with a small jacket. Her headpiece was of blue net and sequins and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations. Bridesmaid, Miss Miriam McLeod, wore a similar gown in yellow and two junior bridesmaids, Beryl and Beatrice Nuefeld, twin sisters, wore pink nylon sheer frocks. All had gold lockets, gift of bride.

James Roe was best man and ushers were James Thomson and Ernie Taylor.

Bridal table was covered with a lace cloth, centred with a four-tier wedding cake at reception in Legion Hall, Chemainus. Cake was surrounded by pink tulle, flanked by silver candelabra tied with tiny bouquets. Don McLeod proposed toast.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Victoria and Seattle, the new Mrs. Bonde donned a wool suit in blue tone. She topped it with grey fur jacket, gift of groom, and pink accessories and corsage of pink orchids.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

South's jump to four spades was a distinct overbid and when he looked at the dummy he wished he had been a trifle more conservative. Still, he saw that there was some faint hope for him and proceeded to give the cards their chance.

East cashed two diamonds and shifted to the four of hearts. South won in dummy, played the ace of spades, led a club to dummy's king and a second club back toward his ace.

East had nothing to gain by ruffing and discarded a diamond. Now South took his ace and king of hearts and led a spade.

East had to win with the king and lead a red card, whereupon South discarded his last club and trumped in dummy.

The hand is an excellent example of the strip play. I will leave it to you readers to figure out why South played the clubs the way he did before running out the hearts.

"FOREST"
CEDAR

FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.

The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.

"FOREST" siding represents an economy to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

T.V. with Lee

BOB GOULET STARS IN STARTIME'S 'THE 13 CLOCKS' AT 9.30

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

OF THIS AND THAT—Today let's try something different, you and me. Let's pool our money and put on a crackerjack TV show, one that will have the critics raving and, incidentally, place what we have to sell into the most homes we can. Ready? Then let's go.

Good. Right off the bat we wangled Art Carney, the hottest name in TV today. What's more we've secured the ideal vehicle for him—three one-act plays that will last 90 minutes in prime time.

Say, did you read those reviews? The adjectives were all there—"Impressive," "Superb," "best of the season," etc. But—Oops!—sorry, old man. Our Carney show was unmercifully clobbered in the ratings by every stick-in-the-mud competitor with the exception of "Man From Blackhawk." Guess we'll have to try again, eh?

Lucky once more. This time we bought "After Hours," a rarity on TV, a sophisticated, romantic comedy with good names. Competition? We'll play it at 8 o'clock Sunday. It shouldn't have much trouble then because it runs up against such old crocks as Ed Sullivan, the last half of Maverick, Lawman and others like them.

Oh, what rotten luck. Although the critics described our "After Hours" as offering "some of the sharpest, wittiest dialogue heard on the home medium in some time—one of the season's brightest comedy hours" we managed to poll an Arbitron of only 8.7 and 11, the lowest of the hour we were on.

Shall we try again?

No, let's not. The same murder happened to the Maurice Chevalier hour and to the sound CBS documentary the same weekend. It is this selfsame ignoring of the worthwhile that caused Playhouse 90 to give up its Thursday night slot in despair, that killed Kraft, the old Studio One and Robert Montgomery Presents.

* * *

NO, IF WE'RE GOING TO POOL our resources, my friend, let's be businessmen. Let's be sensible. Let's pick up the show that the people want to see and who may even buy our products. At least they are willing to allow our commercials to come into their homes.

How about Gunsmoke? After three years—or is it four?—it still tops the Nielsen rating with a whopping 39.6. Then there is the "Untouchables" that is making a run-away of Thursday night. It has made Playhouse 90 vacate its favorite spot. It dented the gay Maurice. It is whamming the daylights out of poor old Tennessee Ernie Ford and Groucho Marx who used to look quite respectable.

The point of all this being that the sponsors' money backs only success. If success were spelled out in fine drama and superb entertainment the sponsors would be backing shows of this high hallmark.

Or, in short, if the public demanded good shows the sponsore would be only too pleased to deliver them. In addition to the sales made the sponsor would also garner a certain prestige that, being human, he would enjoy as well.

So when you curse the horse operas, the crimers and the meatless domestic comedies don't blame the pay-boys blame the public—that great unseen mass of men, women and children who call television's tune.

UPLANDS

Fifteen years ago I watched this home being built. At that time I was tremendously impressed with the quality of material going into its construction. Not a 2x4 was used. The framing lumber was 2x6, 2x8 and 2x12. Now I have the pleasure of offering it for sale, knowing that it is one of the best homes on the market. The fortunate family who buys this home will enjoy this extremely sunny location and will be favored the fine view of sweeping fairways of the Uplands golf course. Children will have nearly ¾ of an acre of lawns and gardens and a swimming pool, plus a rumpus room of their own in the basement. Dad and Mom will enjoy the large den-rumpus room upstairs. An $18,000 mortgage is available. Full price $34,000

THE THINGS SHE DIDN'T TELL POLICE

'I Didn't Remember' Says Carole

(Times News Service)

LOS ANGELES—Prosecutor Clifford Crail forced murder defendant Carole Tregoff today into a series of admissions that she kept from police details of the killing of Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch.

The 23-year-old former model, speaking in a low, husky voice, said again and again that she "didn't remember" shortly after the July 18 slaying many of the facts that since have come to light.

Her lover and co-defendant, Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42, watched with a worried expression as the deputy district attorney kept the pressure unrelentingly on Miss Tregoff.

Crail said that in her statement to authorities shortly after the killing, Carole said she ran from the Finch garage as soon as she saw Mrs. Finch pull a gun from her car.

SHE STOPPED

In her testimony later, Carole said the doctor flung a shaving kit filled with bullets at her and she ran with it.

Crail listened with an expression of great incredulity as Carole said she stopped in her flight from the garage to open an attache case and put the shaving kit in it.

"When did all this come back to you?" asked Crail.

"When the police showed me the shaving kit in the attache case," Carole said.

"I see," Crail said.

NOT VERY MUCH

The prosecutor asked whether on the day before Mrs. Finch's death, Miss Tregoff and the doctor talked about Mrs. Finch.

"Not very much," Carole said.

"Are you telling us you didn't discuss Mrs. Finch?"

"Not very much," Carole repeated.

Crail went back to Carole's statements to police. In those she made no mention of persuading Mrs. Finch to get a Nevada divorce.

"I suggest the first time you heard of that was when Dr. Finch testified to it on the witness stand," Crail said.

"I heard it on July 17," Carole said.

She was holding her composure fairly well at the outset of the day.

Monday she burst into tears as she testified Mrs. Finch pulled the gun on her.

Carole began to cry as Crail pressed her for details on how long it took Mrs. Finch to produce the pistol.

"Just time for her to turn around," said Miss Tregoff. "To take the gun out of the car . . . and turn around . . ."

IN SECONDS

She dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief and continued:

"An instant later she turned around and had the gun in her hand . . . He (Dr. Finch) threw something at me—I grabbed it—it all seemed like the same instant."

She said the object thrown at her was a shaving case which Dr. Finch had testified he gave to Carole as he struggled with Mrs. Finch for the gun.

Dr. Finch testified earlier that he saw the shaving kit on the floor of Mrs. Finch's car and threw it to Carole because he feared erroneously — that it contained another weapon.

Carole said she did not kill or plot to kill her lover's wife.

BANGOR, Wales—Identical twin brothers will hold a walking race over a 104-mile course next Friday to determine which will marry the love of their lives.

MARILYN MONROE
. . . genuine ability

For four weeks Vaughan and Howard Clarke, 19, shared 19-year-old blonde Jean Girling as their date at college dances.

Then they asked her to decide between them. But she couldn't.

"They are so alike in every way that I felt the same about both of them," said Jean.

Said the twins: "We are deadly serious about this. For the only time in our lives we fell out about Jean. But we are friends again now. There will be no hard feelings whoever wins. The loser will be best man at the wedding."

SHANNON, Ireland — Playwright Arthur Miller, husband of Marilyn Monroe, said today he wished people would pay more attention to his wife's acting ability and less to her curves.

"She would not have lasted so long except for her genuine ability as an actress," Miller said.

WESTERLY, R.I.—"Local police are to blame if my automobile fails to pass the highway safety inspection test," says George H. Utter, Westerly Sun circulation manager.

"They have placed so many overtime parking tickets on my car, they've broken the windshield wiper," he explains.

PRINCETON, N.J.—A hundred Centenary College girls stood up a flock of Princeton men who came dateless but hopeful to a St. Valentine's dance.

The Princetonian, campus newspaper, said in a headline designed to help sell tickets: "100 Dates to Be Sold for Dance." The paper said a girl was included at 25 cents extra in the price of a stag ticket.

The girls' parents found out, complained, and the girls were ordered by Centenary officials not to attend.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Runaway heiress Ronni Orr Brady, 17, won her family's forgiveness in court Monday.

Her mother dropped charges of theft against her and of abduction against her grocery clerk husband, Albert Brady.

Puett Named B.C. Steward

VANCOUVER (CP) — Veteran racing man Clay Puett today was appointed the B.C. Racing Commission's steward for the 1960 season.

Glen McDonald, commission chairman, announced Puett had won out over 12 other applicants and will begin his duties May 10.

Puett has been starter at Exhibition and Lansdowne Park tracks here for 24 years and is serving his fourth term as steward representing the State of Arizona Racing Commission.

He has played a major role in the introduction of the starting gate and invented one which now is used in many parts of the North American continent.

41 YEARS ON JOB

Board to Honor Popular Janitor

A special certificate will be presented to George F. Burnell, Oak Bay High School janitor, when he reaches retirement age April 25 after 41 years' service.

Greater Victoria School Board Monday agreed with Trustee Walter Thomson that Mr. Burnell's long service should be given special recognition.

Board chairman W. C. Gelling, said Mr. Burnell had become a "personality" in Oak Bay and was greatly admired by all pupils and graduates of the municipality's schools.

Mr. Burnell will complete the present term before actual retirement June 30.

Tentative dates for two performances by Victoria Symphony for Grade 7 pupils have been set at March 14 and April 4. Pupils from Sooke and Saanich school districts as well as Greater Victoria will hear the concerts in the Royal Theatre.

The three members of the tug's crew were all from New Westminster.

ALCOHOL IN DEATH

VANCOUVER — A railway news agent whose body was found in a CPR switchyard ditch Sunday was impaired by alcohol at the time of his death, police said Monday.

Police said an autopsy indicated Johann Striegel, 50, vomited and choked to death. Cuts and bruises on the left side of his head and face were "very superficial" and could not have caused death.

Deputy Police Chief Gordon Ambrose said police have not yet been able to determine how Striegel was injured or how he ended up in the ditch but "we are treating it as a serious case."

All three countries were annexed by Soviet Russia 20 years ago and now are recognized by Moscow as a Soviet republic.

The treatment of Eczema
Outstanding results in many countries

Throughout the world, many thousands of people who had long suffered from Eczema and other skin troubles have found relief thanks to the remarkable development by Swiss chemists.

Since these chemists were able to process a natural remedy extracted from pure vegetable oils, it has been possible to treat with success many of the most obstinate cases of Eczema, Leg Ulcers, Furunculosis (boils) as well as Infantile Eczema.

"F99" is so easily assimilated by the body that it can even be given to infants.

Thanks to the outstanding results obtained with "F99" these preparations have gained, in only a few years, a solid reputation throughout the world. The "F99" preparations are now available in drug stores in more than 65 countries from Iceland to the Argentine and from Canada to India. In all these countries "F99" is being used with remarkable results even in cases where all ordinary treatments have failed.

Two-way treatment

In cases of Eczema, Furunculosis, Leg Ulcers and Infantile Eczema ask for the "F99" two-way treatment in drug stores:

Internal treatment: Take one "F99" Capsule daily to help suppress the underlying cause of the complaint by means of the blood stream.

For children use the "F99" Liquid instead of the Capsules.

External treatment: Apply daily the "F99" Ointment which penetrates the affected skin from the outside.

MENTAL PATIENTS GO BACK TO BABYHOOD WHILE IN INSULIN SHOCK

A Man Cries Out in the Voice of a Small Child

(Elizabeth Forbes, Times women's editor, recently spent two days at the Essondale Mental Hospital, primarily to talk to young people who are studying to be mental health nurses. In the process she discovered many things about the modern handling of mental illness and how the whole concept of cures has changed to one of persistent hope except in the most stubborn cases. This is the third in a series of seven articles on what she learned.

By ELIZABETH FORBES
Times Women's Editor

In the two days I spent at Essondale Mental Hospital I heard the words "nurse-patient relationship" over and over again.

It is one of the most important facets of student nurse training and is of great significance in new methods of caring for the mentally ill.

Forbes

Dr. Norval McGregor, staff member at the Crease Clinic (a treatment centre at Essondale that sees a turnover of 250 patients in approximately two to four months) explained the relationship this way:

"The psychiatric nurse is close to the patient at all times. The nurse receives the patient on admission; carries out medical treatment as prescribed by the physician; observes and reports on progress of the patient and assists in preparation of the patient to return to life outside the hospital.

Must Accept It

"So you can see how important it is for a student to accept this nurse-patient concept. In fact, students must accept it before they can become good psychiatric nurses."

Dr. McGregor is in charge of a ward in Crease Clinic where insulin treatments are given.

Second morning I was in the hospital he took me into that ward to show me how student nurses work with patients in shock.

It would be presumptuous of me, in the time I spent in the ward, to say I understand all the implications of shock treatment. Nor do I know the complete story of the results.

Full Understanding

What I do know is that during such treatments the patient is entirely dependent on the nurse and that the nurse, in turn, must have a complete understanding of what insulin does to a patient and what it may accomplish.

Shocks are given in a series of treatments over a prescribed number of days.

During each treatment, the patient becomes unconscious and on recovery knows nothing of the reactions that invariably come with the shock.

"The present is wiped out of their minds and they are taken back to their babyhood; in some cases almost back to the hour of birth," Dr. McGregor told me.

"Listen," he said.

At the far end of the ward, two student nurses were bending over a woman who was whimpering like a very young infant. Suddenly her lips began to make sucking sounds as if she was taking milk from her mother's breast.

In another bed a man was crying out in the voice of a small child.

Some patients were quiet, still deep in an insulin sleep.

Student nurses watched them all; noting every movement, every uncontrolled threshing of arms or legs.

Gravely and with complete absorption, they went from bed to bed. Gently, yet firmly, they ministered to the special needs of the blanket-wrapped men and women.

When the patients came out of shock they were bathed, dressed and taken to an attractive lounge next to the ward. There they were given a good meal and while they ate, they talked and laughed together.

"In shock their minds are free of their troubles. Strains and tensions are wiped away," Dr. McGregor told me. "When they come out of shock, their minds remain clear of these troubles—for a time at least—and they find it easier to meet and to mix with others.

"In keeping them together we try to create the warmth of belonging. We give them something of the security of a family circle, that either they have lost or have never known.

Lose Their Fears

Of course, the stresses and strains do come back. With some they never go very far away. But, as the treatments progress there are those patients who lose their fears and their stresses and who return to the outside world again.

Every bed in the big shock-treatment ward was filled but that didn't seem to be a problem as far as Dr. McGregor was concerned.

What did worry him was the need for more trained staff, more psychiatric nurses.

Among students working with him that morning were several seniors. "They graduate at the end of the month," he said, "and we'll take every one of them back on staff if they so desire."

"I'll be back," a pretty young girl student said as she held firmly to the hands of a patient in shock.

"After all, you don't take two years of this training without realizing the work that is here to be done.

"I'm proud to be a psychiatric nurse!"

LENA BEANS RUDE DINER WITH BARRAGE OF DISHES

BEVERLY HILLLS, Calif. (UPI)—Negro singer Lena Horne took offence at remarks about her race Monday night in a restaurant and hurled a Hurricane lamp, dishes and ashtrays at a man sitting at a nearby table.

"This is America, you cannot insult people like that," shouted Miss Horne as she stood up from her table at The Luau and let loose with the barrage.

One ashtray struck Harvey St. Vincent on the forehead, opening a small cut.

By the time police arrived, tempers had cooled and neither Miss Horne nor St. Vincent wanted to press charges.

"I lost control . . .," Miss Horne told police.

According to the police report, St. Vincent's companion, identified as Norman Wynne, said, "there's Lena Horne," and St. Vincent made a derogatory remark.

With that Miss Horne stood up and said:

'I CAN HEAR'

"I can hear what you are saying. Please stop."

St. Vincent made another remark, Wynne walked away and Miss Horne began throwing things from her table, police said.

St. Vincent was hit above the left eye and bleeding, but took the incident "very gentlemanly" and moved to another table after declining medical aid.

Miss Horne's husband asked that St. Vincent be thrown out of the restaurant after the incident but the management declined.

'You Can Always Get a Drink' Says Shoplifter

Shoplifting meat from downtown stores brought jail terms for two men in city police court Monday.

Both men were welfare cases without permanent addresses or regular employment, and both had been drinking, court was told.

"It is an astonishing thing to me that people like you on welfare can afford to drink," Magistrate William Ostler said to Norman Stanley McKibbin.

"Well, your honor, you can always get something to drink when you can't get anything to eat," McKibbin replied.

He was sentenced to 20 days when he pleaded guilty to stealing two steaks valued at $3.20 which he put under his coat before paying for two small steaks worth 90 cents, at Eaton's, court was told.

James A. Mason, who gave his address at 545 Johnson, was sentenced to 30 days for stealing a $2 ham which he thrust into his clothing at Safeway's, 1809 Douglas.

B.C. Refuses To Share Cost Of School TV

Greater Victoria municipalities will have to bear the full $17,500 capital and $2,500 operating costs if S. J. Willis Junior High School is to get a proposed closed-circuit television system.

The Greater Victoria School Board, Monday night, learned the department of education will not share any of the costs.

School superintendent John Gough said the department's decision "was expected".

Representatives of the four municipalities Wednesday will discuss the TV proposal—which would pioneer the teaching technique in British Columbia if adopted—at a special joint meeting with the board on this year's school budget.

Any one of the municipal councils could veto the proposal.

LEVIS SELLS TV SERIES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Carroll Levis said Monday he has sold a $2,000,000 series of television plays to a major United States sponsor.

He said a telephone call Monday from New York confirmed the sale of "World Theatre," a series of 90-minute plays filmed on location in major cities throughout the world.

The former Vancouver newspaper boy who went to England as a youngster in 1936 and reached fame and fortune as a radio and television producer said the shows probably will be seen this fall.

IF THE CITY WON'T PAY HER, LET US DO IT

Make the Pennies Pour for Peggy

THE BUST

Six months have elapsed since sculptress Peggy Packard delivered to city council the concrete bust of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, which it commissioned last June at a fee of $350.

But Peggy hasn't been paid.

While the council bumbles and frets about a location for the bust (now in temporary headquarters at City Hall); about landscaping at Beacon Hill Park; about potential "vandalism"—Peggy's modest bill goes ignored.

The Times feels this nonsense has gone far enough.

Accordingly, we are launching a campaign today:

"PENNIES FOR PEGGY PACKARD."

We want all citizens who feel as we do to send their pennies to The Times, marked simply, "Pennies for Peggy."

We want them from kiddies, from old-age pensioners, from business people, working girls and any others who agree that:

(1) Cities should pay their bills;

(2) Artists—whose work is often remembered centuries after the politicians are buried—have been kicked around long enough.

PEGGY

* * *

The history, briefly, is this: Peggy Packard was approached three weeks before the Queen's visit by Ald. Millard Mooney (himself an amateur artist) to do a bust of the Queen, suitable for placement in Beacon Hill Park, where the Queen was to review the troops.

Miss Packard said three weeks wasn't enough, but she could do a "temporary" job for the occasion and a complete one later. The concrete bust was finished in September.

Then the question of site arose. Peggy went to Beacon Hill Park with city architect Rod Clack and parks administrator Herb Warren.

They agreed that Dallas Road was too close to the sea; weathering could cause real damage.

Eventually a good spot was chosen, just south (across the road) from the Burns Memorial. This was in an area on which attractive beds could be laid out, with a pleasant, sloping background of natural pines.

A stake was driven to mark the spot.

Then arose the hassle about "vandals." Some councillors thought the statue should go to the Art Gallery. Others felt it should be left at City Hall.

Mr. Warren thought he needed about $1,000 for appropriate landscaping.

Rod Clack (says Peggy) was "most helpful"—tried to work out a plan of action, and to get her bill paid.

But no dice.

* * *

In the meantime, councillors have made themselves look foolish across the nation.

Stories of Victoria's "big bust" have hit the news-wires. Miss Packard has received clippings from as far away as Chicago, spoofing the city for its tangle-footed way of dealing with a memorial to Our Sovereign Lady.

And so The Times, in an effort to save the city further embarrassment, is appealing for "Pennies for Peggy."

If every citizen gave only one cent, there would be 140,000 pennies or $1,400.

When 35,000 pennies ($350) are in, The Times will trundle them in wheelbarrows to city treasurer Denis Young, so that Peggy may be paid.

If the bill has been paid in the interim, The Times will turn all the pennies over to a landscaping fund, so that the bust of our Queen may have a fitting locale.

One thousand pennies ($10) are already in. May we have yours, addressed simply to:

"Pennies for Peggy," care of The Times.

"How many pennies to fill it?" asks Rosemary Bergstrom.

2-HOUR ATTACK BY STRACHAN

'Needy Ignored While Bennett Buying Votes'

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett has ignored the needs of the unemployed, the needy and the ailing in recent years to create a $25,000,000 surplus to buy votes this year, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan charged in the legislature Monday.

The CCF leader talked for over two hours on the theme that the government has misrepresented its actions and "outlived its usefulness."

ROBERT STRACHAN

He marshalled his facts and figures and led them in columns against the budget address of Premier Bennett.

The fire of his address at times brought cabinet ministers to their feet crying denials and demanding withdrawals, and at other times held the whole House in head-lowered silence.

He said a CCF government would wipe out the homeowners' grant, give the money direct to municipalities to reduce the mill rate and increase social welfare payments.

"The $22 boost in the homeowners' grant should be investigated as a political sales gimmick" by the legislative committee set up to study trading stamps and other promotional retailing devices, said Mr. Strachan.

'Politicking With Taxpayers' Money'

He charged the premier with distorting fact and hiding direct debt, politicking with taxpayers' money, and striving more than anything else for re-election.

Mr. Strachan said it has taken two years to get the story. But with publication of the public accounts of 1958-59 last week he was able to learn of the government's inconsistency.

The government passed a motion in 1958, he said, to do everything possible for the unemployed. Fernie and Britannia Beach closed down that year. There were 60,000 unemployed in the province.

Yet the Trans-Canada Highway project, for which $17,000,000 was appropriated, was underspent by $7,000,000. This would have meant $18,000,000 in new work, had it been fully spent, because of federal sharing.

Allotments for roads, bridges and ferries were unexpended to the extent of $4,012,097; construction of provincial buildings was underspent by $2,024,131.

The $21,762,584 surplus of that year plus $3,257,735 for 1959-60 will be used this year in the biggest-ever spending spree.

Recalling that these amounts were in the estimates approved by the House that year, Mr. Strachan said:

"No wonder we say, this is a government you can't trust, they don't mean a thing they say."

He cited an example in Vancouver's Jericho Hill School for 33 deaf and blind children, an old frame building which he said was condemned in 1958 and again in 1959.

"This is the year we didn't spend $2,000,000 allocated for new provincial buildings," he added.

"On both occasions a sprinkler system was recommended pending a new building. As of last Wednesday, nothing had been done. So last year we put $6,000,000 into supplementary debt reduction, without approval of this House.

"I'd be sorry and ashamed to be a member of a government which has acted as this has done," he said.

'Straight Political Use of Office'

"We spent $15,000 advertising phony debt reduction across Canada, but we underspent on this school. In the last two years public accounts revealed that the vote for this school had been underspent by $5,804.

"The facts presented to us prove beyond any shadow of doubt that money for unnecessary supplementary debt reduction ($12,000,000) and money to advertise this so-called debt-reduction ($15,000) is far more important to this Social Credit government than the safety of these helpless youngsters."

Public accounts show that that between 1952 and 1959 the department of health and wel-

ALD. J. L. SANGSTER . . . the first time.

AGAIN

Heave Ho . . . Out You Go

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Alderman J. Lewis Sangster was removed bodily from the council chamber here Monday night—for the second time in three months.

On Nov. 23, the alderman went out with a smile on his face. This time he put up a vain battle against the two burly policemen who carried him out.

Both issues arose from disputes with Alderman Jack Allison, another long-time council member.

Ald. Sangster accused Ald. Allison Monday night of shirking his duties over the hiring of a new city electrician.

Mayor Beth Wood tried to tell Ald. Sangster to speak to the motion but couldn't make herself heard.

She barked "Shut up" but the alderman continued shouting. He clutched at the table, still shouting, as he was lifted bodily and carried out.

Guarded by policemen in his own room, the partly-crippled alderman declared: "She (Mayor Wood) knows as much of municipal law as I know about knitting. But what can you expect from a woman?"

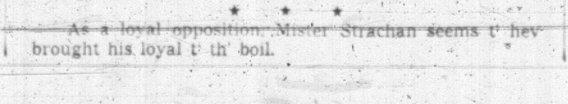
New Atom Treaty Sought by Soviet

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia submitted a new set of proposals for an East-West treaty to ban nuclear tests at today's session of the three-power conference.

The Soviet Union also formally rejected President Eisenhower's proposal of last week for a ban on all tests except small-scale underground explosions.

A communique issued at the end of today's 60-minute meeting said Russia had submitted proposals on the adoption of "temporary simplified criteria" for inspection of events suspected as nuclear explosions.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin has argued at length that fewer on-site inspections than the West demands are necessary to police a total ban on nuclear tests.



Penny fer yer thoughts, Peggy.

Ike Asks $1 Billion Extra Foreign Aid

U.K. Hikes Defence Budget

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today boosted its defence budget for the next fiscal year by £115,700,000. The increase brought the total outlay for defence for the 1960-61 year to £1,617,830,000.

The figures were disclosed by the government in an annual report to parliament on defence.

The report said the increased expenditure was due partly to the transfer to the defence budget of some expenditures formerly borne by other departments.

Development of the Blue Streak, Britain's ballistic missile, is continuing. But the report added that the government may decide not to rely exclusively on fixed-site missiles.

The possibility of long-range missiles being fired from moving launchers, such as planes or submarines, also was being investigated, the report said.

Today's report also disclosed:

1. Arrangements are being made with the United States to provide a warning system for Britain against missile attack.

2. An order for the first all-British nuclear submarine is expected to be placed in the coming year.

3. The new aircraft carrier Hermes, equipped with the latest devices in air defence, is about to join the fleet.

'Send Army' Iraq Asked

LONDON (Reuters)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser today invited Iraq's army to join his United Arab Republic forces for the "liberation of Palestine."

The president referred to a collection of funds in Iraq on behalf of "the Palestine Republic," and said false slogans and mere words would not liberate Palestine.

Addressing Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, Nasser declared: "This is the way to fight: Send the Iraqi army to stand with the UAR army on the borders and let the Arabs in every country feel the Arab nation is a strong nation."

The UAR's First and Second armies, Nasser said, are on the borders with Israel and prepared to "smash Israeli dreams" of a domain from the Nile to the Euphrates.

JACK'S BACK

TV star Jack Parr has agreed to return to his show on March 7, after a Florida meeting with NBC president Robert Kintner and board chairman Robert Sarnoff. NBC appeal to Parr was "on behalf of his large and loyal audience."

WIRE BRIEFS

New Chessman Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An attorney for Caryl Chessman made a 15th appeal to the Supreme Court today in an effort to save the convict-author from execution Friday morning in California's gas chamber.

New Algiers Threat

ALGIERS (UPI) — Right-wing tracts proclaiming that "that barricades will go up again" with army support circulated from hand to hand today in Algiers.

Record for Thriftway

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The unlimited hydroplane Miss Thriftway piloted by Bill Muncey roared to an unofficial world record of 192.001 miles an hour today over a measured mile course on Lake Washington. The old mark was 187.627.

Goodwill Tour Showed Up Need

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today for $4,175,000,000 in new foreign aid funds to safeguard the free world against the "enormous power bloc of Communist imperialism."

The mutual security program is essential to world progress in freedom, he said in a special message to Congress.

The sum, nearly $1,000,000,000 more than Congress voted last year, would be split up in this way: $2,000,000,000 for weapons aid to allies and $2,175,000,000 for economic and technical assistance.

In appealing to the legislators to avoid drastic cuts of the program, Eisenhower mentioned his 11-nation December goodwill tour to Asia, the Middle East and Europe. He said:

"LOOK TO US"

"My recent travels impressed upon me even more strongly the fact that free men everywhere look to us not with envy or malice but with hope and confidence that we will in the future, as in the past, be the vanguard of those who believe in and will defend the right of the individual to enjoy the fruits of his labor in peace and in freedom."

Eisenhower said that without the billions of dollars in foreign aid voted by Congress in the last 14 years "the map of the world would be vastly different today because of communism's continuing threat."

NEW FEATURES

Eisenhower's foreign aid request, covering the year beginning July 1, included these new features:

1. More economic and technical assistance for South Asia, including India and Pakistan.

2. A new special assistance fund of $20,000,000 to finance an education and training program for African areas south of the Sahara Desert.

FIRE HITS 'MACBETH'S CASTLE'

FORFAR, Scotland (Reuters)—Fire today damaged a wing of Glamis Castle, the birthplace of Princess Margaret.

Six rooms were damaged by the blaze but firemen brought the flames under control before they reached the roof.

The castle, childhood home of the Queen Mother, is reputedly inhabited by a bizarre collection of ghosts who stalk the cold, dark corridors throughout the night.

Shakespeare chose Glamis Castle as the scene for his MacBeth.

U.S. Team To Hunt Sub

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Twenty U.S. Navy men arrived today and were ordered immediately to Puerto Madryn to aid the Argentine navy in its search for two mystery submarines believed lurking in the Nuevo Golfo area.

The group was instructed to report to Vice-Admiral Alberto P. Vago, Argentine naval operations chief directing the submarine hunt at Puerto Madryn.

At least 13 Argentine warships and 30 aircraft equipped with U.S. anti-submarine depth charges, bombs and sound equipment are participating in the "kill" campaign against the underseas intruders, but late reports indicate the subs may have slipped away.

Any Day Now, Not Today As 3 Doctors See Queen

LONDON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth, awaiting the birth of her third child, must wait a while longer.

Three of her doctors visited her today and found the royal situation unchanged.

The physicians—Lord Evans, Sir John Weir and obstetrician John H. Peel—slipped into Buckingham Palace through a back door for the examination of their 33-year-old patient.

Just as silently, they slipped out.

When the time comes, they will take with them a fourth man, Dr. Vernon Hall, an anaesthetist.

Through the general expectation had been that this would be the doctors' final examination before the birth, a royal source pointed out that the doctors had seen the Queen every Tuesday for six weeks.

The implication was that it was a routine call.

It was understood that the physicians advised the Queen today to move from her apartment to the palace's ground-floor Belgian Suite which has been converted into a maternity clinic.

The official palace forecast is "any day now." Court officials believe the most likely time is Wednesday.

Monday night, a palace spokesman reported: "The Queen is extremely well and leading a normal but quiet life."

The doctors have been on a steady alert since Monday.

MIXED MARRIAGE URGED FOR ROYAL CHILDREN

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, Eng. (AP)—A Presbyterian clergyman Monday urged the Queen to encourage her children to make inter-racial marriages.

Writing in his parish magazine, Rev. William H. Barbour, 47, said:

"Christian people must not be unwilling to marry Chinese, Indians or Africans or we shall never solve the color problem.

"It would be a wonderful help and inspiration if our Royal Family, who are themselves good Christians, would give a lead to us, their subjects, and fellow Christians."

Six Hurt In Weekend Accidents

A 2½-year-old girl was one of six people treated for minor injuries after four weekend traffic accidents in Greater Victoria.

Hurt by a car, Mrs. Neuy You Young, 32, of 619½ Chatham, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a hip bruise; Mrs. Shirley Zen Lee, 23, of the same address, went to Jubilee Hospital for a cut lip and hip bruise, and her daughter Susan, had an ankle abrasion.

They were walking across Government at Chatham when they were in collision with a car driven by Sardara Singh, 743 Market, at 10.30 p.m. Saturday.

Police said the girl was being carried by her mother at the time. All were released from hospital.

The motorist was charged in city police court today with impaired driving, to which he pleaded not guilty and was remanded for trial to Feb. 23.

Two women motorists were treated at Jubilee after their cars were in collision at Denman and Belmont at 3.15 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Marion E. Wood, 53, of 521 Dupplin, had a leg injury, and Mrs. Hilda Clatworthy, 42, of 998 Lucas, was treated for a shoulder injury.

Barry S. Mackey, 2163 Epworth, escaped injury when his car overturned on Cedar Hill Road at 8.35 p.m. Saturday.

Police said the driver swerved his car to avoid hitting a dog, went out of control over a curb and struck a rockery at the home of Mrs. Nellie Hume, 2647 Cedar Hill.

Elena Bianco, 58, of Duncan, was treated at St. Joseph's for a leg injury and discharged after the car in which she was riding crashed at Craigflower and Admirals at about 2.30 p.m. Sunday.

Price-Fixing Case Resumes

MONTREAL (CP) — The Crown has rested its case at the trial of 17 pulp and paper companies charged with a price-fixing conspiracy under the Restrictive Trade Practices Act.

Defence lawyers will begin their arguments when the trial continues before Mr. Justice Harry Batshaw.

The trial resumed after having been suspended since mid-December because of Mr. Justice Batshaw's illness. It began Oct. 13.

More than 1,500 documents have been filed by the prosecution.

Soviet Advance In World Oil Draws Warning

NEW YORK (AP)—Russia's advance in the world oil market must be watched with great care, says an executive of a large international oil firm.

"Russia has made tremendous strides, is a net exporter and appears perfectly willing to use its natural resource for political propaganda purposes," Harry W. McCobb, vice-president of Standard-Vacuum Oil Company told the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

McCobb, in a review of foreign oil production last year, noted one dominant theme: the overcapacity to produce. He added that the condition will only worsen as new producing areas hit their stride.

AT and T Hits Over Billion In Earnings

NEW YORK (AP)—American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the world's biggest public utility, earned more than $1,000,000,000 in 1959 for the first time.

Bell system earnings rose to $1,148,769,000 last year from $981,463,000 in 1958, Frederick R. Kappel, president, said in the annual report.

This is equal to $5.11 a share on AT and T stock compared with $4.67 a share a year earlier.

American Telephone thus becomes the second U.S. business to reach the $1,000,000,000-profit plateau. General Motors Corp. did it in 1955, but then slipped back.

Profits Increased

VANCOUVER (CP) — Imperial Investment Corp. has reported a net profit of $610,810 for the six months ended Dec. 31, up from $458,089 in the corresponding period of 1958.

The profit represents earnings of 60 cents a share.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian coarse grain markets had an easier tone today amid liberal offerings on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Flax especially declined with selling influenced partly by easier vegetable oil markets in the United States and abroad. Some flax contracts reached new seasonal lows.

Oats and barley trade also was easier, with commission houses on the selling side. Rye business was hesitant.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: Germany 260,000 bushels, United Kingdom 855,000, and Algeria 35,000.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat all were one-eighth cent lower than Monday.

CHICAGO (AP)—After absorbing moderate to heavy general selling most of the day, the grain futures market showed strong signs of a fairly broad recovery movement at times in the early afternoon.

Losses which had run into major fractions in the grains had been wiped out in some instances and sharply reduced in others. Nearby wheat and rye contracts posted gains on active short covering.

Soybeans, hardest hit in early trading, declined a cent or more on old crop deliveries but the setbacks had been trimmed somewhat shortly before the close.

EDGELOW BLOWS UP AT MOONEY

Thetis Fight Erupts Into Shouting Match

Committees Call For Full Report

The battle over the proposed Thetis Lake easement erupted into a full-throated shouting match in City Hall for a few minutes this morning.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, red faced with anger, accused Acting Mayor Millard Mooney of making a false statement and being an "irresponsible elected official" during a joint meeting of city waterworks and parks committees.

Ald. Edgelow also criticized provincial botanist Adam Szcsawinski, conservationists and the press for "going too far in trying to get the public sympathy" against the B.C. Electric's request for an easement through the city property.

REPORT ASKED

After the turmoil settled, the committees called for a comprehensive report on the Thetis Lake property and its best use. The report originally was requested by city council in April, 1955, but never was made.

City engineer J. C. Garnett estimated that it could take two or three months to prepare the report "if this gets the careful consideration it deserves."

Earlier, B.C. Electric official Guy Barclay told the committees it would not make any difference financially in the long run whether the power line easement ran inside or outside the city's property.

EASY WAY OUT?

But the route could be settled "quicker" if the company did not have to deal with private land holders along the east boundary of the watershed, he said.

He added that the company felt running the line through the northeast corner of the city property would enable the greatest development of surrounding private property when the area grows.

Ald. Mooney, chairman of parks committee, asked why the city should consider allowing an easement through the centre of the park at all if it did not really make any financial difference to BCE.

HOLD IT!

Ald. Edgelow jumped to his feet and shouted:

"You said through the centre of the park. That's the kind of false statement that is going on. That's an irresponsible statement.

"You're being an irresponsible elected official when you make that statement."

Ald. Mooney blasted back that "it certainly is not skirting the park."

A general hubub followed as other aldermen tried to get order but before quiet returned Ald. Mooney was heard to shout:

"I'd like Mr. Edgelow to tell me if he has any connections in this. Why has he taken such a positive stand to let B.C. Electric go through the park?"

DEVELOPMENT MONEY

The meeting calmed down as Ald. Edgelow gave his reply.

"I have always felt that it was in the best interests of the taxpayers of Victoria to get money for development of the park area."

He said the easement was proposed for a remote corner of the park and the city should not give way to pressure "from a lot of people who are not Victoria taxpayers."

Earlier, he had accused the provincial botanist "of scraping the barrel to get public sympathy" when Ald. J. L. W. McLean said the University of Victoria was interested in the park as an "outdoor laboratory" for ecological studies.

"He misled the public" by claiming that the easement would run through virgin timber and lower the water table, said Ald. Edgelow.

"Now we've got the university evidently going to be used in this. How in their wildest dreams can anyone say this is going to affect the university when most universities have their own gardens?"

Ald. Edgelow said conservationists had blown the issue out of all proportions.

"Furthermore, I think the press has been unfair in this thing because they are not presenting both sides."

(Later he said he was not accusing the Times of unfairness in reporting the issue.)

NOT A "PARK"

Ald. Edgelow and waterworks chairman Ald. A. I. Curtis earlier clashed swords with Ald. Elmer McEwen and Ald. Mooney because they referred to Thetis Lake "Park."

Ald. Edgelow and Ald. Curtis both said that the property was watershed area, never was and is not park and would become taxable if everyone continued to designate it as a park.

Ald. McEwen said that the terms park and watershed were being used interchangeably "as it suits people at the moment. We all know it is considered as a park by the people."

REPORT FROM FOUR

The report requested by the committees will be made by Mr. Garnett, city manager C. C. Wyatt, parks administrator H. W. Warren and capital region planning director Brahm Weisman.

The question of whether or not the city should offer the property to the provincial government for development was shelved pending receipt of the report but several aldermen indicated they were opposed to the city giving it up.

LEGISLATURE SPEAKERS

Speakers in the legislature budget debate Wednesday are Health Minister Martin, Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East), Frank Richter (SC, Similkameen), and John Tisdale (SC, Saanich). The schedule is subject to last-minute changes.

IMPAIRED DRIVER:

'First Time, Last Time, That's It'

A motorist charged in city police court today with impaired driving is determined it won't happen again.

Terho Tiainen, 1171 McKenzie, pleaded guilty and when asked by Magistrate William Ostler if he had anything to say, replied:

"Yes. It's the first time and last time I'm here. That's it."

A commendable attitude, said the magistrate, fining the accused $250 and remanding him for a probation report on the matter of driver's licence suspension.

John Robert Soberg, 1051 Holmes, pleaded guilty to the same charge and was fined $250 with licence suspension.

Court was told two RCMP constables clocked Soberg at 50 miles an hour on Gorge Road, stopped him once near Rock Bay then had to jump back in their police car to follow him part of another block when the accused tried to drive off.

Soberg said he was in his seventh day of trying to quit smoking and before having some drinks he had taken a quantity of drugs, which he felt may have contributed to his condition.

Lawyer Raps Easy Buying Of Weapons

The ease with which anyone may buy small arms and ammunition was termed "shocking" by a Victoria lawyer speaking to sentence in an assault case in city police court today.

James Proudfoot spoke on behalf of Louis Schubert, of Victoria, who is charged with the common assault of his wife, Juliana, by striking her in the face and pointing a gun at her in a quarrel Jan. 23.

"It is a shocking factor that any man—and that is the case here—can go into a sporting goods store and buy a revolver and shells," Mr. Proudfoot said.

He pointed out that the gun at this time was not loaded, according to his information.

"The situation is a dangerous one," prosecutor T. P. O'Grady said, asking the court to treat the case as an assault by striking a blow and by pointing a dangerous weapon —"whether loaded or unloaded."

Magistrate William Ostler suggested a psychiatric report on the accused, in which Mr. Proudfoot concurred, and the case was remanded to Monday for sentence.

SEA TRIALS FOR FERRY

First sea trial for the new provincial government ferry MV Sidney took place today in Juan de Fuca Strait.

The ferry will be used on the Sidney-Tsawassen service, scheduled to open this summer.

Sidney's builders, Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd., hope to deliver the ship to the government March 7, one year from the keel-laying ceremony.

Sea trials will continue at intervals for the balance of February.

Two Farmers Figure In Tory Race

A representative of Saanich farmers, Victor E. Virgin, is expected to accept a bid for Progressive Conservative candidacy for the next provincial election.

Mrs. Nora Lindsay, publicity chairman for the association, said today the nominating meeting of Saanich PC Association will be held March 17 at Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall at 8 p.m.

CONTEST

There were indications of a contest for the nomination because it was earlier announced that Saanich Farmers' Market operator William Mattick also would seek candidacy.

He said this morning he is still considering the question.

Mr. Virgin is a director of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, a director of Saanich Fruit Growers' Association and Vancouver Island representative for the B.C. Farmers' Institute.

A school teacher for 25 years in Saskatchewan, he has lived in Saanich since 1946 and has written a book on the history of the area.

'We Want Work' Says Strachan

The legislative committee on agriculture "has no useful purpose at all anymore," Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said this morning following a short meeting.

Mr. Strachan, who is a member of the committee, said there is nothing for the committee to do. "We have had two meetings and nothing has been referred to us."

Mr. Strachan said in past years the advisory board of the Farmers' Institutes of B.C. has met with the agriculture minister and submitted recommendations which were passed along to the committee.

"There were usually seven or eight proposals and we would bring in recommendations to the House," said Mr. Strachan.

ASKED FOR WORK

When it became apparent this year that Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy would not send along the institute recommendations, Mr. Strachan said he proposed a motion that the committee ask the House to refer matters to the committee.

This morning's meeting was held to receive a report from Speaker Hugh Shantz to the effect that this was not in keeping with the terms of reference governing the committee. Although the committee is set up to consider any matters referred to it, it may not ask for referrals.

NOT TIED

Chairman Frank Richter (SC-Similkameen) said later, "I do not feel the committee's hands are tied. We have the same power we have always had. It is the perogative of the minister to refer matters. It is still possible we will consider the Farmers' Institute proposals, if the minister sees fit."

He said the minister had met with the farmers.

PICTURE CHANGED

Mr. Richter did not think the Farmers' Institute carried the same weight with B.C. farmers as in the past. He felt they were seeking to have their wants answered through submissions to the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, which recently submitted a brief to cabinet.

Last year in the House, there was some controversy when the committee adopted a resolution of the institute which favored public power development of northern hydro resources, contrary to expressed opinion of the government.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Have M.L.A.s' indemnities recently been increased by order-in-council, and also do ministers holding a dual position receive dual recompense? Of course they will have dual expense accounts, won't they?
—E.H.

A. There has been no recent increase in sessional indemnities. Ministers holding two or more cabinet ranks receive only one salary, $12,500 a year. They receive expenses in connection with their work, regardless of which department they may head. Exception to the salary bracket is Premier Bennett who gets $15,000 yearly. He is also finance minister.

Q. What year was the first Indianapolis Speedway event?
—B.B.

A. In 1911.

PARK LAKE 'PLUG' PULLED

Partial drainage of Beacon Hill Park's Goodacre Lake today is limiting "cruising range of waterfowl. Water was released to expose rock and mortar shoring for $800 repair job. Result is rocky "beach" on north side of lake and mud flats on south. Work started four days ago and will be finished "soon as possible." Park officials point out there is no real shortage of water for birds, merely less than they have been accustomed to. Water is drained from lake by gate valve. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Alderman Heads New Scout Body

The first of eight Boy Scout Association district councils was formed at Scout regional headquarters Monday.

It will be known as Fort Victoria.

Formation of district councils is part of a reorganization program designed to permit greater boy and adult participation in the Scout movement.

Instead of having one district council to serve the Greater Victoria area, there will be a total of eight. They will all be organized within the next few months.

The newly-formed council elected Ald. M. H. Mooney as its president.

Other officers elected were: F. Crocker, vice-president; C. J. Williams, secretary; E. V. Darling, treasurer, and J. C. Hawkes, badge secretary. Executives, J. P. Fawcett, B. N. Inglis, F. M. Shandley and G. Whiteaker.

G. W. Oliphant was appointed district commissioner and Winnie Lees, district cub master.

Plan Studied For Wider City Entrance

The B.C. department of highways plans to widen the Trans-Canada Highway approach to Victoria.

This was revealed in a Saanich town planner's report recommending against permitting a company to use a site on Harriet near the Trans-Canada Highway for the sale of trailer homes.

Saanich council will view the site.

Planner Tony Parr said the government is preparing plans for widening the highway.

TOO CLOSE

He pointed out that when the highway is wider the trailer enterprise would be alongside the road.

"This type of development is definitely not wanted at the entrance to the city," he said. "The unattractiveness of this type of development may be seen in the unorganized territories along the highway, west of Saanich."

Service College Sports Meet This Weekend

Annual athletic tournament of the Canadian Services Colleges will be held Friday and Saturday at Royal Roads.

Winning college, on a total point basis, is awarded the Claxton Cup. Since the tournament's inception in 1949, RMC has won six times; Royal Roads twice, and CMR, which joined for the first time in 1954, three times.

'I'VE BEEN RIGHT BEFORE' SAYS OLDTIMER

A Boy ... 7.30 A.M. ... Wednesday

The Queen's baby will be born at 7.30 a.m. Wednesday.

And it will be a boy.

This is not an announcement from Buckingham Palace, but a prediction from Thomas James Dunstan, 851 Viewfield Road, a bearded 86-year-old Victorian who is widely known for his prophecies.

"I frequently get hunches," he said, "and they usually turn out to be right."

Mr. Dunstan said he got the hunch three months ago that the royal baby would be born on Wednesday. But he refrained from making it public at that time because he felt births were personal family affairs.

He explained that making predictions was second nature to him.

"They come and they go," he said. "It's easy. All you have to do is to study yourself."

He recalled that he made $16,000 in wagers in 1918 by predicting that two famous swindlers would be convicted in a trial at Vancouver.

He also claimed he foretold in March, 1918, that the First World War would end on Nov. 11 of that year.

"I have also predicted the dates of several famous earthquakes," he added.

Born in Cornwall, Eng., where gremlins and pixies still haunt the moors, Mr. Dunstan served on sailing ships in the latter years of the 19th century.

He later came to Canada and laid the foundation of a sizeable fortune by hawking pins, needles, combs, linen and "notions" from door to door.

He is the former owner of the Dunstan Block, the Scott Block and the land on which the Daily Times now stands.

At various times he owned 10 stores in Victoria, chiefly antique stores.

"I've led a full life," said the former mariner. "I've made 16 crossings across the Pacific to Australia and New Zealand."

Mr. Dunstan said some day he would get down to writing a book about his adventures in Canada and abroad. It was just a matter of getting down to it, he said.

"As for that hunch—you wait until tomorrow morning," he promised . . .

A James Bay teen-ager is accused by police of having gun, and travelling.

'To Safeguard World Against Communism'

IKE URGES $1 BILLION EXTRA FOR FOREIGN AID

'Needy Ignored While Bennett Buying Votes'

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett has ignored the needs of the unemployed, the needy and the ailing in recent years to create a $25,000,000 surplus to buy votes this year, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan charged in the legislature Monday.

ROBERT STRACHAN

The CCF leader talked for over two hours on the theme that the government has misrepresented its actions and "outlived its usefulness."

He marshalled his facts and figures and led them in columns against the budget address of Premier Bennett.

The fire of his address at times brought cabinet ministers to their feet crying denials and demanding withdrawals, and at other times held the whole House in head-lowered silence.

He said a CCF government would wipe out the homeowners' grant, give the money direct to municipalities to reduce the mill rate and increase social welfare payments.

"The $22 boost in the homeowners' grant should be investigated as a political sales gimmick" by the legislative committee set up to study trading stamps and other promotional retailing devices, said Mr. Strachan.

'Politicking With Taxpayers' Money'

He charged the premier with distorting fact and hiding direct debt, politicking with taxpayers' money, and striving more than anything else for re-election.

Mr. Strachan said it has taken two years to get the story. But with publication of the public accounts of 1958-59 last week he was able to learn of the government's inconsistency.

The government passed a motion in 1958, he said, to do everything possible for the unemployed. Fernie and Britannia Beach closed down that year. There were 60,000 unemployed in the province.

Yet the Trans-Canada Highway project, for which $17,000,000 was appropriated, was underspent by $7,000,000. This would have meant $18,000,000 in new work, had it been fully spent, because of federal sharing.

Allotments for roads, bridges and ferries were unexpended to the extent of $4,012,097; construction of provincial buildings was underspent by $2,024,131.

The $21,762,584 surplus of that year plus $3,257,735 for 1959-60 will be used this year in the biggest-ever spending spree.

Recalling that these amounts were in the estimates approved by the House that year, Mr. Strachan said:

"No wonder we say, this is a government you can't trust, they don't mean a thing they say."

He cited an example in Vancouver's Jericho Hill School for 33 deaf and blind children, an old frame building which he said was condemned in 1958 and again in 1959.

"This is the year we didn't spend $2,000,000 allocated for new provincial buildings," he added.

"On both occasions a sprinkler system was recommended pending a new building. As of last Wednesday, nothing had been done. So last year we put $6,000,000 into supplementary debt reduction, without approval of this House.

"I'd be sorry and ashamed to be a member of a government which has acted as this has done," he said.

'Straight Political Use of Office'

"We spent $15,000 advertising phony debt reduction across Canada, but we underspent on this school. In the last two years public accounts revealed that the vote for this school had been underspent by $5,804.

"The facts presented to us prove beyond any shadow of doubt that money for unnecessary supplementary debt reduction ($12,000,000) and money to advertise this so-called debt reduction ($15,000) is far more important to this Social Credit government than the safety of these helpless youngsters."

Public accounts show that that between 1952 and 1959 the department of health and wel-

Home Grant Details Given

The B.C. government today filed 10 bills in the provincial legislature, chief among them one to extend the homeowners' grant, now boosted to $50 to residents in co-operatively-owned apartment blocks.

Bill 33, as well as boosting the grant, would permit a person who owns his own home but rents a portion of it, to claim the grant provided the claimant is also a resident.

And it permits a shareholder of a corporation which owns an apartment to claim the grant if resident in the apartment house.

It does not extend the grant to persons who own homes but do not live in them, as was speculated on previously.

The bill would also increase the fine for persons making an untrue claim for the grant. Where it was $50 for a first offence and up to $100 for subsequent offences, the stipulated amounts are now $100 and $1,000 respectively.

New Atom Treaty Sought by Soviet

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia submitted a new set of proposals for an East-West treaty to ban nuclear tests at today's session of the three-power conference.

The Soviet Union also formally rejected President Eisenhower's proposal of last week for a ban on all tests except small-scale underground explosions.

A communique issued at the end of today's 60-minute meeting said Russia had submitted proposals on the adoption of "temporary simplified criteria" for inspection of events suspected as nuclear explosions.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin has argued at length that fewer on-site inspections than the West demands are necessary to police a total ban on nuclear tests.

The bill notes the amount of the pension is the amount of the pension to which Mr. Sloan would have been entitled at the time of his death.

LET US PAY BILL

Make Pennies Pour for Peggy

Six months have elapsed since sculptress Peggy Packard delivered to city council the concrete bust of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, which it commissioned last June at a fee of $350.

PEGGY

But Peggy hasn't been paid.

While the council bumbles and frets about a location for the bust (now in temporary headquarters at City Hall); about landscaping at Beacon Hill Park; about potential "vandalism"—Peggy's modest bill goes ignored.

The Times feels this nonsense has gone far enough.

"PENNIES FOR PEGGY PACKARD."

★ ★ ★

We want all citizens who feel as we do to send their pennies to The Times, marked simply, "Pennies for Peggy."

We want them from kiddies, from old-age pensioners, from business people, working girls and any others who agree that:

(1) Cities should pay their bills;

(2) Artists—whose work is often remembered centuries after the politicians are buried—have been kicked around long enough.

★ ★ ★

THE BUST

The history, briefly, is this: Peggy Packard was approached three weeks before the Queen's visit by Ald. Millard Mooney (himself an amateur artist) to do a bust of the Queen, suitable for placement in Beacon Hill Park, where the Queen was to review the troops.

Miss Packard said three weeks wasn't enough, but she could do a "temporary" job for the occasion and a complete one later. The concrete bust was finished in September.

Then the question of site arose. Peggy went to Beacon Hill Park with city architect Rod Clack and parks administrator Herb Warren.

★ ★ ★

They agreed that Dallas Road was too close to the sea; weathering could cause real damage.

Eventually a good spot was chosen just south (across the road) from the Burns Memorial. This was in an area on which attractive beds could be laid out, with a pleasant, sloping background of natural pines.

A stake was driven to mark the spot.

Then arose the hassle about "vandals." Some councillors thought the statue should go to the Art Gallery. Others felt it should be left at City Hall.

Mr. Warren thought he needed about $1,000 for appropriate landscaping.

Rod Clack (says Peggy) was "most helpful"—tried to work

Warns Congress Against Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today for $4,175,000,000 in new foreign aid funds to safeguard the free world against the "enormous power bloc of Communist imperialism."

The mutual security program is essential to world progress in freedom, he said in a special message to Congress.

The sum, nearly $1,000,000,000 more than Congress voted last year, would be split up in this way: $2,000,000,000 for weapons aid to allies and $2,175,000,000 for economic and technical assistance.

In appealing to the legislators to avoid drastic cuts of the program, Eisenhower mentioned his 11-nation December goodwill tour to Asia, the Middle East and Europe. He said:

"LOOK TO US"

"My recent travels impressed upon me even more strongly the fact that free men everywhere look to us not with envy or malice but with hope and confidence that we will in the future, as in the past, be the vanguard of those who believe in and will defend the right of the individual to enjoy the fruits of his labor in peace and in freedom."

Eisenhower said that without the billions of dollars in foreign aid voted by Congress in the last 14 years "the map of the world would be vastly different today because of communism's continuing threat."

NEW FEATURES

Eisenhower's foreign aid request, covering the year beginning July 1, included these new features:

1. More economic and technical assistance for South Asia, including India and Pakistan.

2. A new special assistance fund of $20,000,000 to finance an education and training program for African areas south of the Sahara Desert.

U.S. Team In Argentine To Hunt Sub

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Twenty U.S. Navy men arrived today and were ordered immediately to Puerto Madryn to aid the Argentine navy in its search for two mystery submarines believed lurking in the Nuevo Golfo area.

The group was instructed to report to Vice-Admiral Alberto P. Vago, Argentine naval operations chief directing the submarine hunt at Puerto Madryn.

At least 13 Argentine warships and 30 aircraft equipped with U.S. anti-submarine depth charges, bombs and sound equipment are participating in the "kill" campaign against the underseas intruders, but late reports indicate the subs may have slipped away.

Any Day . . . Not Today As 3 Doctors See Queen

LONDON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth, awaiting the birth of her third child, must wait a while longer.

Three of her doctors visited her today and found the royal situation unchanged.

The physicians—Lord Evans, Sir John Weir and obstetrician John H. Peel—slipped into Buckingham Palace through a back door for the examination of their 33-year-old patient.

Just as silently, they slipped out.

When the time comes, they will take with them a fourth man—Dr. Vernon Hall, an anaesthetist.

Though the general expectation had been that this would be the doctors' final examination before the birth, a royal source pointed out that the doctors had seen the Queen every Tuesday for six weeks.

The implication was that it was a routine call.

It was understood that the physicians advised the Queen today to move from her apartment to the palace's ground-floor Belgian Suite which has been converted into a maternity clinic.

The official palace forecast is "any day now." Court officials believe the most likely time is Wednesday.

Monday night, a palace spokesman reported: "The Queen is extremely well and leading a normal but quiet life."

The doctors have been on a steady alert since Monday.

MIXED MARRIAGE URGED FOR ROYAL CHILDREN

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, Eng. (AP)—A Presbyterian clergyman Monday urged the Queen to encourage her children to make inter-racial marriages.

Writing in his parish magazine, Rev. William H. Barbour, 47, said:

"Christian people must not be unwilling to marry Chinese, Indians or Africans or we shall never solve the color problem.

"It would be a wonderful help and inspiration if our Royal Family, who are themselves good Christians, would give a lead to us, their subjects, and fellow Christians."

WHEN PRIVATE FIRMS PULLED OUT

B.C. Hydro Cut Rates In 12 Areas—Strachan

B.C. Power Commission cut the power rates in 12 of 13 centres after taking the distribution systems over from private firms, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said in the legislature Monday.

He was answering a speech last week by Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan who said he saw nothing in the Power Act to indicate it is the duty of the power commission to take over the B.C. Electric.

Mr. Strachan said when the BCPC took over in the Alberni area, rates were cut by a third, at Burns Lake by one-half.

Similar reductions were made at Clinton, Campbell River and Dawson Creek. At Golden they came down from 14.2 to 3.3 cents per kilowatt hour, Hope from 10.3 to 3.7, Lake Cowichan 8.7 to 3 cents, Nakusp 10.6 to 3.83, Nanaimo 5.2 to 2.2, Westbank 8.8 to 3.22, Quesnel and Sechelt 11.2 to 3.69, Terrace 16.7 to 2.64.

"To be fair, at Lillooet they went up from 7.9 to 8.4 cents, but it's the only place where the rates went up."

Mr. Strachan has consistently argued public power must be cheaper than private power because there are no corporation taxes or share profits to be met. And he added Monday, "B.C. Hydro makes no political levy on consumers as B.C. Electric does."

He went on to criticize Mr. Kiernan for repeating the remark that if the Power Commission took over the Peace River development the financial burden would be too great.

"It's odd to hear these people tell us B.C. couldn't finance this or that. The minister read a list of 16 companies that will finance the Peace, but the province couldn't do it. If 16 companies can raise the money on the strength of the natural resources of B.C., then the 1,600,000 people of B.C. can raise the money on these same resources," said Mr. Strachan.

out a plan of action, and to get her bill paid.

But no dice.

* * *

In the meantime, councillors have made themselves look foolish across the nation.

Stories of Victoria's "big bust" have hit the news-wires.

Miss Packard has received clippings from as far away as Chicago, spoofing the city for its tangle-footed way of dealing with a memorial to Our Sovereign Lady.

And so The Times, in an effort to save the city further embarrassment, is appealing for "Pennies for Peggy."

If every citizen gave only one cent, there would be 140,000 pennies or $1,400.

When 35,000 pennies ($350) are in, The Times will trundle them in wheelbarrows to city treasurer Denis Young, so that Peggy may be paid.

If the bill has been paid in the interim, The Times will turn all the pennies over to a landscaping fund, so that the bust of our Queen may have a fitting locale.

One thousand pennies ($10) are already in. May we have yours, addressed simply to: "Pennies for Peggy," care of The Times.

NANAIMO — Tenders for construction of a new regional 200-bed hospital in Nanaimo will be called in June or July.

U.K. Hikes Defence Budget

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today boosted its defence budget for the next fiscal year by £115,700,000. The increase brought the total outlay for defence for the 1960-61 year to £1,617,830,000.

The figures were disclosed by the government in an annual report to parliament on defence.

The report said the increased expenditure was due partly to the transfer to the defence budget of some expenditures formerly borne by other departments.

Development of the Blue Streak, Britain's ballistic missile, is continuing. But the report added that the government may decide not to rely exclusively on fixed-site missiles.

The possibility of long-range missiles being fired from moving launchers, such as planes or submarines, also was being investigated, the report said.

Today's report also disclosed:

1. Arrangements are being made with the United States to provide a warning system for Britain against missile attack.

2. An order for the first all-British nuclear submarine is expected to be placed in the coming year.

3. The new aircraft carrier Hermes, equipped with the latest devices in air defence, is about to join the fleet.

Alderman Ousted For Second Time

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Alderman J. Lewis Sangster was removed bodily from the council chamber here Monday night—for the second time in three months.

On Nov. 23, the alderman went out with a smile on his face. This time he put up a vain battle against the two burly policemen who carried him out.

Both issues arose from disputes with Alderman Jack Allison, another long-time council member.

Ald. Sangster accused Ald. Allison Monday night of shirking his duties over the hiring of a new city electrician.

Mayor Beth Wood tried to tell Ald. Sangster to speak to the motion but couldn't make herself heard.

She barked "Shut up" but the alderman continued shouting. He clutched at the table, still shouting, as he was lifted bodily and carried out.

Guarded by policemen in his own room, the partly-crippled alderman declared: "She (Mayor Wood) knows as much of municipal law as I know about knitting. But what can you expect from a woman?"

NANAIMO—Mrs. Lena Martin Monday was named Nanaimo's "woman of the year" in recognition of her work on senior citizens' housing and on civil defence.

She received an inscribed award from Mayor Pete Maffeo.

GREGORY HISSED BY MAINLANDERS

UBC Arts Faculty to Victoria?

A light-hearted suggestion that the entire arts faculty at the University of British Columbia be moved to Victoria College was made in the legislature Monday by George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria).

Mr. Gregory said UBC is getting "far too big" and would be better located in Victoria.

CCF members from Vancouver replied with subdued hisses but Mr. Gregory wasn't dismayed. He insisted that many of the world's leading universities are located in small, picturesque towns, such as Oxford, Cambridge, Yale, Harvard and Princeton.

"A big sprawling industrial city like Vancouver is no place for a university," he said. "UBC should never have been started there in the first place."

ADVERTISERS:

Just how many PEOPLE does your ADVERTISING really reach?

Study all media circulation claims closely; can they guarantee their circulations with paid receipts?

Daily newspapers can. Their circulation figures are fact not fancy, and are the total of paid deliveries. You know what you get when you advertise in daily newspapers. You know, on the basis of paid receipts, exactly how many homes your message is reaching.

You know that your message has a better chance of being seen and understood than in any other media or combination of media. It means that well beforehand, without any doubt, you know how many people your message will reach.

When it comes to advertising, trust in guaranteed circulations. They're your best assurance that the money you spend does the kind of selling job you want.
